Township Residents Continue to Wage Campaign Against Proposed IDA Building on Terhune Road

Just before midnight Monday, Mayor Jay Bleiman promised an overflow crowd in Township Hall that Committee would discuss the secrecy implications of the proposed Institute for Defense Analyses building, and comment later.

But he also said, "I don't think we can say there is no place in Princeton for the defense community." He quoted Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address ("with malice toward none...") and urged Princeton residents to move away from the polarization of the Vietnam War.

IDA's Communications Research Division wants to build on a lot off Terhune Road owned by the Thanet Corporation. IDA has been at 100 Prospect on land leased from Princeton University, but when the University notified IDA in 1971 that the lease would not be renewed after August, 1975, IDA sought land elsewhere.

Monday's meeting was held at the request of the Citizens in Search of Peace, who charge that because IDA does secret government work, the Township has no way of knowing what will be going on inside the building. The Citizens also charge IDA with possible violation of international treaties, and have suggested that IDA does research in nerve gas and weaponry. Opponents of the Vietnam War demonstrated against IDA at the Prospect Avenue building in 1970 and 1972. IDA's director and deputy director were both present at Monday's meeting.

No Vietnam Connection. Commenting on IDA's secrecy, Marvin Goldberger of the University faculty, told Monday's audience he could state "categorically" that IDA's work "had absolutely nothing to do with the Vietnam War."

He added, "I cannot prove it to you," but he suggested the audience read a book, "The Code Breakers," which "describes in detail" IDA's work.

"To talk about nerve gas and weaponry is a silly thing to do," he declared. "IDA is involved with true national security—and I don't mean Nixon-national-security."

Drainage took precedence over weaponry Monday night, and an impatient audience listened for over two hours to detailed environmental objections.

The Citizens, through their attorney, Lawrence Marinari, asked Committee to send IDA back to the Princeton Regional Planning Board on the grounds that many questions, chiefly on environmental matters need reply and clarification.

IDA has received site-plan approval. Thanet has been told by the Planning Board to make certain improvements. They will be finished in about two weeks, said IDA's lawyer, A.C. Reeves Hicks, and then IDA can apply for a building permit.

Other Objections. In a lengthy statement, Robert Hosford, 430 Terhune, expressed concern about drainage and flooding. He also warned that noise, fumes and objectionable security lighting might emanate from the IDA building, and he suggested the organization build in a military area where round-the-clock security measures were routine. He told Committee that recent events related to Watergate had made him skeptical about measures taken for "national security."

This Is Princeton

In a quick follow, Lester Tibbals of 131 Randall Road—not far from Mr. Hosford—described with chalk and blackboard the "intolerable" drainage that regularly floods his property. He declared that Thanet's work now under construction would make the situation even worse.

But Township Engineer Joseph Hodak drained off Mr. Tibbals' protest: the new system is designed to store storm-water and let it out slowly so that storm impact will be less than it is now. Besides, the new drainage system isn't on IDA's lot—it's upstream.

IDA Defends Itself. Richard Leibler, IDA's director, who happens to live on Terhune as a neighbor to Mr. Hosford, replied to critics of parking area, lighting, drainage and security measures. The 162 parking spots, criticized as too many for a 70-member staff, were required by the zoning ordinance; guards are not armed but only uniformed, the 10-foot fence topped by barbed wire is required by the government and wasn't put up until the 1970 demonstrations. He said IDA was still working on drainage and lighting plans, and he reminded Committee and audience that these plans must satisfy Mr. Hodak.

Herman Spitz, 389 Terhune, told Committee tartly, "It's up to you to protect us! Why should I have demonstrations and riots in my backyard? Why take the University's problems on ourselves?"

The chief spokesmen for the Citizens were Mrs. Geulah Abrahams and Steve Slaby. Mayor Bleiman told IDA officials it was their responsibility to recognize the legitimate concerns of citizens and to give as much assurance as possible.

"Past events have given ample cause for citizen concern," the mayor observed.

What of the Future? Mrs. Abrahams emphasized that the Citizens' protest was not directed against individuals, and that the group did not want to divide the community. Citizens oppose IDA, she said, because they believe IDA instrumental in developing technology for the Vietnam War. She said the CRD division here should join IDA's other four divisions in Arlington, Virginia.

"There is no way to know what, potentially, IDA may become," she warned, and Mayor Bleiman said he felt that way, too.

Richard K. Shaker, identifying himself as an IDA employee who had demonstrated against the war, took issue with Mrs. Abraham. Defense establishments should be in the community, not isolated with other defense organizations, he said, and the mayor agreed.

Mr. Slaby, warning that the Citizens may be forced into the courts to try and keep IDA out, repeated Mr. Spitz' assertion that it was up to Committee to protect the town.

An anti-IDA petition was challenged sharply from the audience. Mayor Bleiman reported that the petition, dated October, 1972, had 1,846 signatures including about 1,400 from Borough and Township residents. This figure included around 600 students, he said. Other signatories were non-residents of Princeton, underage, or duplicates.

Mrs. Abrahams told the audience that minors, outsiders and foreign students were not counted in the tally. She said another petition had 500 signatures obtained in three days, opposing IDA's involvement with the Vietnam war. Township officials had agreed to accept Borough signatures, she said.

When Barbara Smoyer, on Township Committee, pointed out that Borough and Township had about 14,000 voters together, compared to the 1,400 signatures on the October petition, Mr. Slaby proposed a town referendum on IDA's move to the Township.

Adult School Lists Courses

The complete curriculum for the 1974 Spring Term of the Princeton Adult School appears on pages 24 and 25 of this issue. A coupon permits early registration, before the Open House is held February 7. Classes will begin the week of February 18.

Hey, Ma! It's Dark Out Here!

It's ten minutes of seven and the moon is shining brightly on the school bus stop. If it weren't for that moon, you couldn't see the mitten in front of your face and what's more important—the school bus driver couldn't see YOU.

Daylight saving has brought new gray hairs to school bus drivers, panic to crossing guards and a new shortage: Princeton Day School can't find a store with any orange fluorescent vests left in stock. Both Police chiefs have these words for parents:

- Take very young children to bus stops and wait with them.
- Get children to wear light-colored clothing, or apply luminous tape to outer jackets.
- Don't let your child bike unless the bike has adequate lighting.
- Urge kids to use bike paths.

Crossing guards in Princeton who report to Borough and Township police, have now been issued luminous vests and red flashlights. (The PDS guard will have to get along with just a flashlight). Motorists are urged to drive with great caution in early-morning hours.

Will school hours be advanced so that dawn and home-room won't be simultaneous? Probably not.

If Princeton changed its hours, private schools would have to change, too, because Princeton buses take kids to private schools. Other towns also bus kids to private schools, so Hopewell or Pennington would have to change, too. By the time everything got worked out, it would be light again at ten minutes of seven.

Meanwhile, Ralph Bennett, head of transportation for Princeton's schools, is driving a bus himself, enjoying the moon and saying a simple prayer: please, no fog.

BUS STOP: Two buses will loop around this route if plans now being developed by the citizens' advisory committee on public transportation, finally move into high gear. The route is designed to serve places where non-residents of Princeton work (hospitel, uptown shops end offices, shopping center) and to provide big staging areas where out-of-town residents could leeve their cars and take a bus into town.

Inner Bus System

embarrassed by a shortage of buses. The company had hoped for buses this spring, based on New Jersey's request for some of that Federal money.

Paul (Mike) Lion, professor of transportation in Princeton University's engineering school, isn't particularly discouraged. He points out that Nixon's rejection was on a technicality and he thinks the bill can be re-worked for the President's signature and eventual bus delivery.

Mr. Lion had a meeting with Mercer Metro this Tuesday, and he said beforehand, "I expect a lot of answers."

Cost to be Investigated. His assignment from his transportation committee is to find out how much it would cost if Princeton bought its own buses. He's found that a 33-passenger bus—about the size for Princeton—is $28,000 to $38,000. He plans to see about electric buses, too. Under one plan Princeton would buy the buses and Mercer would operate them.

How about school buses? Legal bars seem to be in the way, but Princeton's school system owns a lot of its own buses, so legal restrictions may not apply. What would apply, or course, is the timetable: kids go to school just about the same time people go to work.

The transportation committee has also heard from Paul Draper, who once proposed a Dial-a-Ride service operated by himself. "We haven't ruled him out," Mr. Starr promises.

One of the optimists on his committee, Mr. Starr looks toward the mid-February early-March dates on his 1974 calendar for the final wrapping up of the package, and the hoped-for approval from Borough and Township governing bodies.

"We're trying to speed it up," says Mr. Starr.

WANT TO BE PRINCIPAL?

Middle School Job Open. The job of principal for Princeton's Middle School is now on the market.

The school system's personnel department announced this week that Princeton residents who think they are qualified, or who know people anywhere in the country who might be qualified, should write L. Wesley Johnson, personnel administrator, Box 711, Princeton.

Virginia Euell, now in the principal's office, has the title of Acting Principal. She will automatically be a candidate unless she withdraws her name.

Advertisements in the last two Sunday New York Times, and in the Daily Challenger of New York City, have outlined the requirements of the job. The position has also been advertised to members of the Princeton Regional Schools' staff. So far, about 60 applications have been received from all sources.

The principalship requires state certification. Anyone interested should send a brief personal statement, a resume of educational and vocational experience and either a minimum of three letters of recommendation or an updated file.

Note of Suspense Is Injected by Prosecutor as Carpi Murder Case Trial Begins

Colin C. Carpi "set out with a premeditated, calculated, deliberate plan to execute his wife, the mother of his four children," a crime that would have been a perfect murder were it not for a "fatal grievous error, something only he, only the murderer could have done," said Richard Altman, Mercer County assistant prosecutor.

The state's case against Mr. Carpi will "raise more questions than it answers," countered defense attorney Gerald Stockman. "This may be an unsolved murder. You and I can live with an unsolved murder, but we cannot and must not live with an unjust conviction."

So did the two adversaries in the celebrated Carpi murder case stake out their positions Monday to the jury in Mercer County Superior Court in Trenton. The 10-man and 6-woman jury, including Elbert Young of Princeton, William Long, Michael Barbiere and Lorraine Honeiser of Lawrence Township, and Harriet Troeger of West Windsor, was selected last week.

Colin C. Carpi leaving courthouse last week.

The first of an expected 130 or more witnesses were called to the stand on Monday of this week. The trial probably will last at least three weeks.

In his opening remarks to the jury, Mr. Altman said he would prove that the as-yet unspecified "mistake was made after the disappearance of Mrs. Laura Carpi, but before her body was found."

Custody Battle. Mrs Carpi disappeared from her rented home at 213 State Road February 8, 1971. Her body was found floating in New York's East River in June.

The body was at first unidentified and presumed to be that of a drowning victim. Following an examination of the skull, however, a bullet was found, a dental examination revealed the body to be that of Mrs. Carpi, and Mr. Carpi was arrested and charged with murder.

Mrs. Carpi, who was separated from her husband at the time of her death, had won a custody battle for the four Carpi children several days before her disappearance. The prosecution was expected to establish that outcome as a motive in the killing.

The children, Jennifer, now 14, Colin Jr., 13, David, 12, and Laura, 10, now live with Mr. Carpi at 148 Fairway Drive, where he conducts an investment counseling service. The defendant is free on his own recognizance. The children will take the stand, Mr. Stockman told the jury.

Mr. Stockman, in his opening remarks, said he could establish a reasonable doubt as to Mr. Carpi's guilt. "I will fight and fight hard," he said. "But I'm no Perry Mason, no Owen Marshall. I don't expect to be able to produce the real killer or killers."

The atmosphere surrounding the trial was surprisingly relaxed. Mr. Carpi, wearing an off-green worsted suit and a white shirt, listened attentively, took notes, and smiled several times in the direction of the audience of about 20 persons, half of whom were press representatives. He ate a light lunch with his attorneys at a coffee shop across the street from the courthouse—the same eating place chosen by the 16 jurors.

The prosecutor appeared formal, direct and businesslike, speaking in a quiet but firm voice. Mr. Stockman was freer with his gestures. His suit coat unbuttoned, he occasionally thrust his hands into his back pockets. Both attorneys held the close attention of the jurors.

Other Explanations? Published reports at the time of Mr. Carpi's indictment spoke of other men who had an interest in Mrs. Carpi. One was a Somerville optometrist, with whom she was reportedly collaborating on a book about a children's eye disease. Mrs. Carpi and the doctor were reportedly considering marriage after their divorces became final.

Whether any of these persons would be called to testify remained a question mark as the trial began in Trenton.

Mr. Stockman asked the jurors to consider the possibilities of other explanations for the murder, such as a sex attack, a burglary or an attempted kidnapping.

One witness for the defense is expected to be Joanne Benuit of Washington, D.C., a former resident of Princeton, who reportedly saw a Volkswagen parked near Mrs. Carpi's house the morning she disappeared.

Adversaries Cited. The fact that he was notified of this witness and her information only recently led Mr. Stockman to blast the prosecution. He said the state's case was based on "misdirected and incomplete investigation by people who were adversaries of Colin Carpi's long before his wife disappeared."

The defense attorney criticized the involvement in the case of the Princeton law firm of Mason, Griffin and Pierson. That firm advised Mrs. Carpi in her separation from Mr. Carpi and in her custody fight for the children.

Because one member of that firm, John Hartman, had also served as Princeton Township attorney and prosecutor, Mr. Stockman charged, the firm was able to maintain "a position of special trust and confidence with the Princeton Township Police." Continued Mr. Stockman: "We say that had a bearing on the conduct" of Township Detectives Norman Servis and Samuel Bianco.

Mr. Altman praised Detectives Servis and Bianco as "dedicated, hardworking" officers.

Good Goldwork. The prosecution's first witnesses, including two New York policemen and three dentists, described the recovery of Mrs. Carpi's body from the East River, the examination of her teeth and the identification of the body.

The jury was told that fingerprints were impossible to obtain because "the body was devoid of hands." One New York dentist recalled that he had marveled at the body's dental work. "It was quite extensive dental work, a lot of goldwork. It was very good goldwork. We commented that it was probably very expensive," he testified.

Dr. Richard B. McClelland of Pleasant Hill Road, Mrs. Carpi's dentist, said he "vividly remembered" one tooth he had filled just one week before the victim's disappearance. He also inspected several other "key teeth" on which he had done work.

"After I hit two or three of these teeth," he told the jury, "I said, 'this is Laura Carpi.' Then I settled back and went through each and every tooth." Dr. McClelland's final opinion: "I am absolutely certat that's Laura Carpi." Carpi."

Mr. Stockman raised few questions in cross-examination. He concentrated on a yellow fragment of cloth, that was said to be part of a quilted house coat found on the body. Only one witness testified that he was certain the fragment brought into court was the same one found on the body.

What's Going On?

The hour I save
Sure isn't light
I eat my toast
By bright moonlight.

The question no one has really been able to answer satisfactorily about the advent of Daylight Saving: Why does the time it takes to get light in the morning seem so much longer than the 60 minutes we now have added at the end of the day?

Somewhat baffled by it all along with the rest of us, the Man is again hedging his forecast. Precipitation, some of it possibly snow, is likely by Thursday, he reports, with partially sunny skies to follow. The temperature will remain seasonably cold through the weekend.

Fatal Flaw? After the first week of activity in the trial, the intense interest in the case focused on Mr. Altman and his prediction of evidence that would show a fatal flaw in an otherwise "perfect crime." Followers of the case in Princeton wondered what that mistake could be and whether or not Mr. Altman could prove that both it and the murder were the handiwork of Mr. Carpi.

That ultimately would be decided by the jury, all 16 of whom will sit in deliberation but only 12 of whom will actually vote on the verdict.

Other jurors are Donald E. Sprague of Hamilton Township, an electrician who will serve as jury foreman; Daniel Brown of Ewing; Gilbert Good of East Windsor; Carlton Gleason of Hamilton; Louis Stanziale of Hamilton; Jean Melana of Ewing; Alice Wance of Hamilton; James Zullo of Hamilton; Chester Chmara of Ewing; Justina Kelly of Hamilton; and Cynthia Leonardi of Trenton.

LET NEEDY RIDE

Crosstown Participation Urged. People on welfare should be eligible for the 25-cent round trip rides offered the elderly through Crosstown-62, Mrs. Margen Penick told Borough Council Tuesday night. Mrs. Penick said she had encountered a woman alloted $1.25 daily for food, who must spend $2 a week taxi fare going to market.

"It is not fair to exclude another needy group," Mrs. Penick said.

Councilman Martin P. Lombardo, a member of the Joint Commission on Aging, told Mrs. Penick the Commission had considered welfare receipients, but hadn't been sure how much response Crosstown-62 would receive and how much the program could handle.

Questions of additional cars, drivers and funds had to be answered, he said. "We didn't feel it was realistic to open up the doors to everyone immediately."

Council member Barbara Sigmund and Mayor Robert W. Cawley proposed that the question be referred to the Borough's welfare department.

Onward CBD! Mayor Cawley announced that he was assigning co-ordinating responsibilities to Council's Parking and Transportation Committee as the Central Business District developes.

"The CBD project is approaching a critical stage," the mayor said, "During the next half year, I look forward to completion of planning, plus basic decisions on parking and bus transportation. Princeton University expects to have definitive development plans ready in this time period, also."

Correction

A reporter who lives in Princeton Township and has one brown eye and one green one erred in the re-cycling story in last week's TOWN TOPICS. The Borough does not collect brown glass in its re-cycling; only green and clear, which are collected on different Wednesdays. The Township collects both brown and green, as well as clear.

Councilman Arthur Morgan, chairman of parking and transportation, will be responsible, with Councilman Robert Powell as his deputy. Mrs. Sigmund and Councilman Thomas Cawley are also on this committee.

The committee will co-ordinate CBD planning---including the Princeton Regional Planning Board's Master Plan---bus porposals, development of the Borough's own parking operation and the University's plans as they relate to such Borough services as parking.

"This coordination responsibility will not usurp the planning responsibility of the Planning Board," the mayor emphasized, "But will help provide needed data, and assure that schedules are met."

Within the next few weeks, the mayor said, he will write organizations like the Chamber of Commerce to inform them of the new co-ordinating system.

The Borough joined the Township in the new Solid waste Management Study committee. Mayor Cawley said he would appoint members in February. The Township took similar action this week.

Cyclists Take Care! Bike-riders traversing Wiggins were urged to use the new bike path in an eloquent plea by Mrs. Sigmund. "The car-bike mix is [illegible] Wiggins Street," she warned.

At present, bike riders are not legally required to use bike paths where they exist. But Mrs. Sigmund said such an ordinance might become necessary for safety's sake. Councilman Cawley reported that 65 percent of the paths were completed before winter weather.

4 Women Report Theft of Handbags in Muggings; Police Say Outsiders Come Here to Seek Victims

Beginning with the statement, "We've had a rash of strong-arm robberies", Chief Michael Carnevale went on to describe how four women were victimized in the Borough last week by muggers.

Friday evening around 6, two Princeton women, one in her 20s, the other in her 30s, were accosted in separate attacks within minutes of each other in the alley area next to Davidson's Market leading to the Park Place lot in the rear.

One of the victims told patrolmen David Alston and Victor Fasanella, who investigated, that she was approached by two young men, one of whom said: "Give me your pocketbook or I'll shoot you." They grabbed her purse, which contained only ID and credit cards, and fled.

Moments later, the same two approached their second victim. She told police one threatened to kill her if she didn't surrender her purse. As she handed over her pocketbook containing $25 to $30, the victim told police she noticed one of her accosters was carrying a pocketbook. She observed them get in a car and drive away from the Park Place lot.

The car was later found abandoned in Trenton with one of the stolen—and empty—purses inside. Police said that the car had been stolen. The two muggers were described as short, one light complexioned, the other dark.

Followed to Driveway. Late last Tuesday evening, two women, both residents of Princeton, were followed to the driveway of a home on a street off Snowden Lane.

According to Chief Carnevale, as one started to get out of the car, she was approached by a man described as 5-9, 20 to 25, well built, dark complexioned, wearing dark clothing who told her, "I don't want to hurt you; just give me your bag." He forced the bag from her arm, police said.

At the same time, another man, described as 5-8, 25, wearing a moustache, approached the other woman. He pulled a knife, threatened her if she didn't hand her pocketbook over, and grabbed it. The attackers then drove off in a car.

One victim lost $50 to $60, the other, $30. Police said one was young, one middle-aged. Detectives Timothy Huizing and Thomas Michaud are continuing the initial investigation of Sgt. Robert Anderson.

Outsiders Blamed. "We're making every possible attempt to apprehend these men," said Chief Carnevale. After pointing out that the empty pocketbook snatched from a Princeton resident a week ago as she was loading groceries into her car was later recovered in a Franklin Township house, the Chief added that "we are being inundated by outsiders who are coming here to prey on women in this community."

He said the only suggestion he could make to the victims was to try to keep control of their senses, to get a license number, description of clothing, tone of voice—"anything that will help us later in making a proper identification."

It is vital to call police right after an attack. One of the victims last week, he said, did not report the incident until she arrived home 20 minutes later.

All of the red-marked police and fire call boxes, reminded Chief Carnevale, have a direct line to police headquarters. It is also possible to make an emergency call from any of the public phone booths scattered around town without a coin by dialing the operator and saying it is an emergency.

POLICE FIND MARIJUANA

In Car's Glove Compartment. A routine police check of a car on Jefferson Road at 12:33 Monday morning resulted in the arrest of its three occupants.

While looking in the glove compartment for the registration, police allegedly uncovered more than 25 grams of marijuana. Charged with possession were the driver, Christopher Hagadorn, 21, 20 Vandeventer Avenue; Richard Embley, 22, 3 Humbert Street; and Frances Mockler, 19, Village Road East, Hightstown.

All were later released to appear in Borough Court on January 23. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and Pt. David Lewis were the arresting officers.

$80 IS STOLEN

From Jewish Center. An office at the Jewish Center on Nassau Street was entered last week and police report that $80 was removed from a file cabinet.

Police added that there were no signs of forced entry but that it has not been determined how the intruder got inside. Pt. Bernard Lenhardt investigated the theft that was reported Wednesday morning.

Tools Taken. Thomas H. Hartshorne of Lockhart Hall on the university campus reported to police Friday that the front hood of his Volkswagen parked on University Place had been forced open. Taken he said were assorted tools and a jack. He placed his loss at $225.

And Some Tequlla, Too. Three bottles of tequila valued at $19.50 were stolen tast week from Cousins Liquor Store on Palmer Square.

The method was simple and direct. A side display window was broken and the thief reached in and prepared to drink to the New Year. The incident was reported at 9:29 New Year's morning.

COUPLE IS INJURED

In Vattey Road Accident. Walter A. Durling, 68, 1 Montgomery Avenue, Rocky Hill, and his wife, Sara, were treated at Princeton Medical Center Thursday for contusions and abrasions

Ruth Kemmerer Dorf Returning to South America with Her Brother To Complete Trip Interrupted by Near-Tragedy in Summer of '22

In June, 1922, the Edwin W. Kemmerer family, then of 128 Fitz-Randolph Road, became international celebrities by swimming through flaming waters to escape what was at the time one of the most tragic maritime disasters. The Kemmerers had been on board the steamer Villafranca, which burst into flames in the middle of the Parana River, between Argentina and Paraguay. More than 80 persons drowned or burned to death, and the Villafranca disaster was listed in the World Atmanac for the next 20 years as one of the greatest tragedies.

The Kemmerers became living examples of why people should learn to swim--then an unknown form of recreation in most of the world. "IT PAYS TO KNOW HOW TO SWIM," blared one headline of the day.

On Tuesday of this week, the two Kemmerer children, Ruth, now Mrs. Erling Dorf of 283 Mercer Road, and Donald L. Kemmerer, who just retired as professor of economic history at the University of Illinois, left for a return visit to South America. Their destination is the world-famous Iguazu Falls, located at the juncture of Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil——the destination they never reached on their previous trip.

Mrs. Dorf and her brother refer to the trip as "our sentimental journey."

"Both of our spouses understood why we would want to go on this trip by ourselves," said Mrs. Dorf, whose husband is a professor of geology at Princeton University. "Without having been through it themselves, they wouldn't appreciate the trip the same way we will."

"Money Doctor." Mrs. Dorf and Mr. Kemmerer will fly from New York to Rio de Janiero, spend three days there, and then fly from Sao Paulo, Brazil, to the Iguazu Falls. They considered, but finally decided against, taking a boat downstream several miles to the site of the disaster itself. After viewing the falls, they will make their way back to the United States by way of asuncion, Paraguay, and Lima, Peru. They are due back Tuesday, January 22.

The last trip Mrs. Dorf and her brother took to South America was cut short by the Villafranca disaster. The 1922 visit was actually a working expedition for their father, who was professor of economics and finance and a renowned "money doctor," who in his career served as a financial adviser to 14 nations.

The Kemmerers left Princeton in January, 1922, for a six-month study of finances in Brazil, Argentina, Peru and Chile for the United States government. They were near the end of their long journey when they boarded the Villafranca, a combination freighter-passenger ship, for a three-day journey up the Parana to the Iguazu Falls.

"The distance we were supposed to travel wasn't that great," recalled Mrs. Dorf, "but the boat stopped at practically every little town along the way. Father thought it would be a great way for us to see the countryside."

The boat carried about 115 passengers, a crew of 35, and a cargo that included about 5,000 gallons of gasoline. On the first night out, June 4, at about 2 a.m., as the ship was anchored about 75 yards off-shore, the gasoline caught fire, triggering a series of explosions.

Professor Kemmerer, an authority on money matters, was turned into an overnight authority on the Villafranca disaster. Newspapers quoted him and extensively and perhaps even creatively in their accounts of the disaster.

Only One Chance. "SKILL IN SWIMMING SAVED 4 KEMMERERS IN TRAGEDY OF SEA," headlined the Brooklyn Daily Eagle. The paper quoted Prof. Kemmerer as saying: "We had only one chance for our lives, and that came when the oil on the water was nearly all consumed. All of us are good swimmers. We decided to leap from the rail. Once overboard

LA CATASTROFE DEL "VILLAFRANCA"

Profunda consternación ha causado la noticia del trágico naufragio. En la madrugada del día 4, el vapor cruzaba frente a la colonia Hohenau, costa paraguaya, cuando se le vió repentinamente envuelto en formidables llamaradas; poco después se produjo la terrible explosion que hundió la nave. En el siniestro pereció casi toda la tripulación, salvandose muy pocos de los 150 pasajeros que conducía, entre los cuales figuraban distinguidos miembros de la sociedad correntina.

Señor Roque Chacón, capitán del "Villafranca", superviviente.

DEATH TRAP: The steemer "Villafranca" wes carrying a crew of 35 and about 115 pessengers, including the Kemmerers of Princeton, when it exploded and caught fire in June, 1922. The Kemmerers were sleeping in two forward compartments on the upper deck, at left. They jumped overboard just as the first explosion occurred end swem through burning waters to shore some 75 yards eway. Inset is the ship's ceptain, Roque Chacon. Accounts veried es to his performance and that of his crew during the tragedy. He survived but more than 80 others on board did not.

ALIVE AND WELL IN BUENOS AIRES: As the only Americans involved in the Villafranca disaster, the Kemmerers and their narrow escape in South America became front page news in the United States. A newspaper photographer snapped this picture at the train station in Buenos Aires three days after the disaster, as the Kemmerers were enroute back home. From the left are Ruth, then 12, now Mrs. Erling Dorf of 283 Mercer Road; Mrs. Kemerer; Princeton University Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer; and Donald, then 16, now professor emeritus at the University of Illinois. The smudge on Mrs. Kemmerer's left cheek is a burn. The vessel exploded at 2 a.m. and the Kemmerers swam to safety in their night clothes. Later they salvaged one of their suitcases. All found adequate attire except Mrs. Kem- That is why she wears the blanket.

there was nothing to do but swim for shore. Any hope of catching hold of floating debris was banished by the flaming oil that ignited everything in sight."

The account continued: "My wife's face was burned. But not even a scar remains now. The children and I got ashore without injury. We found ourselves in the German colony of Hohenau, where the natives cared for us. More than half of the second class passengers were either drowned or burned to death, and all of the first class passengers, except myself and my family, were lost."

The New York American was more vivid. "Dressed only in their night clothes, the Kemmerers and their children ran on deck, to find the ship ablaze from stem to stern. Gasoline was burning on the water on all sides of the vessel. In describing the scene of terror that ensued, Professor Kemmerer said: 'People roasting in the roaring flames and terrific heat on deck leaped overboard into the flames on the surface of the water. Scores drowned before our eyes while the flames licked their faces and hair and arms. It was one of the most horrible disasters of which I have ever known.'

'Fear-Crazed Men!' The newspaper's account of Professor Kemmerer's words continued: 'We saw we had no time to lose when the ship began to list heavily to one side from the water rushing in through the hole blown in her side. We all climbed to the deck rail, 20 feet above the water and dived down through the flames, swimming underneath water until we came out in a patch of water clear of the fire circle..'

The New York Evening Journal outdid all competitors in its account. The headline was "MADDENED MEN NEARLY DROWN FAMILY. Prof. Kemmerer Tells of Swim from Burning Ship Through Fear-Crazed Throng."

Prof. Kemmerer was quoted as saying: "I told the children to get ready to dive from the rail. We all went over the side together. As we went under the water on the dive the second explosion came. Only the fact that we were under water saved us, as blazing oil was hurled in all directions."

"When we came to the surface all swam toward the shore, but we were carried out of our course by the heavy tide. Here and there fear-crazed men and women were struggling to save themselves and many were trying to beat out the flames which clung to them, scorching some to death.

"When we came to a widening ring of flames we all dove and swam under the surface for some distance. I noticed then that Mrs. Kemmerer was near a fear-crazed man, who had found a table and was floating on it. He sprang from the table and at her, but she freed herself after some struggle and he went down.

"Another sprang at me, but was unable to down me. I shook him off. A floating beer case passed and I grabbed it and pushed it toward Mrs. Kemmerer, who was growing weak. She held on to this and we finally reached the shore."

Constant Reminders. The accounts, Mrs. Dorf recalled, became somewhat exaggerated. "We actually jumped from about six or seven feet above the water," she said. "It was true that we actually were beneath the surface when the explosion occurred, but that business of swimming for extended distances under flames is not quite right."

But the excitement of the moment still cannot be overstated for Mrs. Dorf and her brother. "When we got back, we wrote compositions about it and even our children have written compositions about it," she said. "People are constantly reminding us of it."

When Mrs. Dorf was introduced 12 years later to the man who became her husband, she remembers him saying, "Kemmerer, Kemmerer, you aren't the same Kemmerers who were in the shipwreck, are you?"

Her brush with death has not kept Mrs. Dorf from traveling throughout the world. At the age of 18, six years after the Villafranca disaster, she took a trip around the world. Since then she has traveled frequently with her geologist husband.

"No," she said, "there's nothing to compare with the Villafranca." Nothing? "Well, my husband and I were in Prague in 1968 when the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia.

"We were locked in our hotel for three days as the Russian tanks were rumbling through the streets below. But then we had the feeling that the American government would somehow protect us. It just wasn't the same as the Villafranca."

News Of The THEATRES

NO "HAMLET"

"Twelfth Night" Instead. Lack of "the right actor-director combination," in the words of McCarter's artistic director Louis Criss, has forced "postponement" of "Hamlet" and the substitution of "Twelfth Night" in the McCarter Theatre Company's spring schedule.

"Twelfth Night" will be in preview Sunday, February 10, at 3 and will open formally on Thursday, February 14. Tickets are now on sale at McCarter's box-office for all performances.

Mr. Criss, who will direct "Twelfth Night," announced that "Hamlet" will be re-scheduled "once the artistic combinations can be brought together...."Twelfth Night' is a play full of love and joy and that is why we have chosen it."

FROM BELGIUM

Bejart Dancers. One of the most significant dance innovators of this era, Maurice Bejart, will send his company to Princeton for the first time for a performance in McCarter Sunday, January 20, at 3 p.m.

Based in Belgium, the Bejart dance company is known for productions of Stravinsky ("Sacre du Printemps") and Beethoven ("Ninth Symphony") Two years ago in Madison Square Garden, the company presented a full-length ballet based on the life of the dancer Nijinsky.

At McCarter, the Bejart dancers will present only one work—"Stimmung," set to the contemporary score of Karlheinz Stockhausen. The music, written for six vocalists, will be performed in person by members of the Collegium Vocale of Cologne, under the direction of Wolfgang Fromme.

BRUBECK BRINGS FAMILY

Plus Trio. Jazz pianist Dave Brubeck will bring not only his own Trio, but three of his four sons when he comes to Princeton Saturday, January 26, (8 p.m.) for a concert at McCarter in the theatre's pop-event schedule.

The sons are Darius, age 26, who has his own group called Darius Brubeck Ensemble which includes younger brother Danny, 18, and Chris, 22. The combo that will appear at McCarter is called, to no one's surprise, "Two Generations of Brubeck." During the evening, father and sons will go back and forth from Brubeck-style jazz, to the most contemporary jazz and rock.

"Modern Times" will occupy McCarter Theatre Sunday at 7:30. The showing is part of the theatre's Sunday film series devoted to the feature films of Chaplin. Single admissions are on sale at the box-office.

"Modern Times" was the final screen appearance of the "little tramp" and was Chaplin's last attempt to make a silent film. Chaplin himself wrote music for the score, but he had the tramp character keep the tradition of silence and mime.

Paulette Goddard, who was Chaplin's wife at the time, appears in the film. It was her performance in "Modern Times" and, subsequently in Chaplin's "The Great Dictator," that first brought her recognition in Hollywood.

LEARN TO ACT

With Creative Theatre. Improvisation, mime, creative movement and intermediate acting are on stage this semester at Creative Theatre Unlimited, whose second 10-week term of adult workshops will start Tuesday, February 5.

Instructors will be on hand to answer questions and to provide registration forms on Thursday, January 24, from 7-9:30 p.m. at 33 Mercer Street (Trinity Church.) Applicants may also obtain information by calling 924-1601.

Improvisation and mime will be offered Tuesdays from 8-10 p.m. and Intermediate Acting on Thursdays from 8-10 p.m. by Jane Fitch, English actress with extensive experience in England and in this country.

No previous experience is needed for participation in the mime and improvsation class. Some previous acting experience is required, however.

Who thinks about buying a pool at this time of year?

Very, very smart people.
Smart, because prices are at their lowest right now. Smart, because if they buy now they're guaranteed of swimming all summer long. Starting Memorial Day!
And smart people are finding out all they can now before they make that final decision. Like finding out about all the exclusive Sylvan features that help reduce maintenance to a bare minimum. And generally discovering that all pools are not alike. Most smart people find that the Sylvan differences can make all the difference in the world.
If you're close to making your decision, do what most smart pool buyers do. Talk to Sylvan. And talk now!

for Intermediate Acting.

On Wednesday mornings from 10 to 11:30 a.m., Pat Cline will teach Creative Movement, using modern dance techniques and improvisations to explore basic movement concepts of energy, time, space and weight. Students will be encouraged to extend individual expressiveness into movement terms. No previous dance or movement experience is required.

FROM C. PLAYERS

Comedy for January. "Sister George" is a character in a radio serial. The serial's ratings are slipping and the question is, how to kill off Sister George?

It will be answered, one way or another, in Community Players' "The Killing of Sister George," due to open Friday, January 18, at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church. It will play again that Saturday and Sunday and the following Friday and Saturday. Reservations at 924-0625.

The actress who plays Sister George, described as "middle-aged, pug-nosed, gin-drinking, hard cussing hellion," will be portrayed in this production by Toni Tavarone. A graduate of Hiram College in theatre arts and psychology, she has been director as well as actor.

Elizabeth Bolick, who will play the roommate of the actress, is a sophomore at Princeton High School making her first appearance for Community Players. She was a member of Creative Theatre for Youth for three years, and has worked with Street Theatre and in PHS productions.

Susan Zimmerman will play an executive of the British Broadcasting Corporation, producers of "Sister George." She has been with the Princeton University Savoyards ("The Pirates of Penzance") and the Players ("Everything in the Garden") and has done TV commercials in New York.

Barbara Herzberg, a Players veteran, will be Madame Xenia. She has played both McCarter and Theatre Intime, and has acted in four previous Players productions.

Evan Higgon, who is directing, is the Players' president. He teaches English and American literature at Rutgers Prep, and has been technical director for several plays.

KING FILM HERE

Honoring Birthday. "From Montgomery to Memphis," a film on the life and contributions of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., will be shown at McCarter Theatre next Wednesday, January 16, at 8. It is presented under the joint sponsorship of the Princeton Youth Center and the Black Caucus of Princeton in commemoration of Dr. King's birthday on January 15.

The community is invited to attend. No tickets will be sold but a donation of $1 per person will be taken at the door on a first-come, first-served basis.

Dr. King, recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964 for his work in civil rights, was instrumental in obtaining recognition of the civil rights of black citizens and the poor. As head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, he popularized non-violent protest by leading sit-ins and marches throughout the south. The height of his career was his "I have a dream" speech made during the 1963 March on Washington. He was assassinated in Memphis April 4, 1968.

RUSSIA IN APRIL?

Ballet Society Invites You. The Princeton Ballet Society will take an eight-day tour to Moscow and Leningrad April 7 - 14. Audree Estey, director, said that anyone may join the "Russian Rhapsody" tour but space is limited and reservations will be honored in order of receipt.

Included in the tour is round-trip transfer from the Ballet Society studios to Kennedy Airport; round-trip flight on Aeroflot, the Russian carrier; first class hotels, three meals a day, all transfers within Russia, baggage handling, sightseeing trips, English-speaking tour escort, four performances of Russian ballet and-or theatre, and proposed visits to the Choreographic Institute for class observation and the Bolshoi or Kirov Ballet Schools.

The tour cost of $618 per person double occupancy includes a $100 tax-deductible donation to the Princeton Ballet Society which will be used to support dance student scholarships and educational programs in central Jersey schools.

Revere Travel, 29 Palmer Square, and 1604 Pennington Road, Trenton, acts as agent for the passenger in regard to tour arrangements of air and hotel accommodations. Mrs. Bonnie Wagner of the Princeton Ballet Society will escort the tour.

Brochures with detailed information on day-to-day tour activities and payment arrangements are available through the Princeton Ballet Society, 262 Alexander Street, or Revere Travel.

GARDEN

Sleeper. Starring Woody Allen, directed by Woody Allen and Woody Allen at his wackiest best. In this one, Woody is the owner of a food store in Greenwich who is hospitalized for an ulcer operation. He wakes up 2,000 years later, however, wrapped in aluminum foil and the film starts. Diane Keaton of "Godfather" fame co-stars.

PRINCE

The Seven-Ups. Another hard-cop, exciting-chase film which seeks to capitalize on the success of "The French Connection" and has alot going for it–including Roy Scheider.

Scheider was brilliant as Gene Hackman's partner in "The French Connection" but had to take a back seat to Hackman at award time. Now he is numero uno and just as effective in "The Seven Ups," which pulsates with excitement.

There are more parallels with "The French Connection." The film is based on a story written by Detective Sonny Grosso, one of the two who blew the whistle on the real French Connection and "Bullitt", "The French Connection", and now "The Seven-Ups"– the dirty tricks squad that even regular cops are afraid of!

"The Seven-Ups" was produced and directed by Philip D'Antoni, the man who brought you "Bullitt" and "The French Connection."

The star of "The Seven-Ups" is Roy Scheider who played Gene Hackman's partner in "The French Connection."

The story was written by New York Detective Sonny Grosso, one of the two detectives who busted "The French Connection" case.

Remember how "Bullitt" and "The French Connection" literally slammed you into the front seat of a car and drove you headlong into a new kind of excitement?

Well, wait until you see what P. D'Antoni is up to this time.

The same, and lots more, as you roar through city streets at terrifying speeds in what we predict will be hailed as the most electrifying chase in screen entertainment.

MUSIC
In Princeton

"LUNTS OF THE OPERA"
Husband, Wife to Sing there.

The Metropolitan Opera's Evelyn Lear, soprano, and Thomas Stewart, baritone, will be featured in a recital as the second concert of Series I of the Princeton University Concerts on Monday at 8:30 at McCarter Theatre.

The husband and wife duo have been called "The Lunts of Opera." Acclaimed by audiences the world over for their appearances in both opera and concert, they have also recorded many of their most famous operatic roles as well as favorite concert songs and duets.

TO SING HERE MONDAY: Evelyn Lear end Thomas Stewart will give e recitel in McCarter Mondey as part of Series I in the University Concerts seeson.

The Stewarts sing more than 50 recitals and concerts each season of which nearly half are joint appearances, including Lincoln Center's celebrated "Great Performers" Series. They have sung with the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, Chicago Symphony, Boston Symphony, Los Angeles Philharmonic and other leading ensembles.

The wide spectrum of music offered by Miss Lear and Mr. Stewart extends beyond opera and lieder to operetta and musical comedy. They have sung "Porky and Bess" at the Hollywood Bowl and will repeat their performance of the Gershwin classic at Royal Festival Hall, London, next season. They will accent the romantic world of Viennese operetta in their forthcoming summer festival appearances at Tanglewood, Ravinia and Saratoga. The future calendar of both artists lists numerous events, among them Miss Lear's world premiere performance of Thomas Pasatieri's "The Sea Gull" with the Houston Opera, and Mr. Stewart's first Metropolitan Iago in "Othello" and a joint appearance as Donna Elvira and Don Giovanni during the Metropolitan's June Festival.

For their concert in Princeton, they will sing Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister" songs by Wolf. Two Folk Duets by Brahms and duets by Purcell, Ives and Lehar. Tickets at $4.50 and $6 may be obtained at the McCarter box office. Student tickets at $2 will be available one hour before the concert.

CONCERT THIS FRIDAY

Joe Hickerson to Sing. Joe Hickerson will appear in concert this Friday, at 8:15 p.m. at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, Witherspoon and Quarry Streets. The event is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Admission for the concert is $2.00 general admission and $1.50 for students. Society members get a discount and memberships will be available at the door. There are no advance ticket sales. For further information, contact Mrs. Caroline Moseley, 113 Linwood Circle, Princeton, (609) 921-3588. Other concerts scheduled by the Princeton Folk Music Society this year include Bill Steele on Friday, February 8, and Jean Redpath, outstanding Scots balladeer, on Friday, March 8.

AMATEURS TO MEET

Sunday at All Saints. The Society of Musical Amateurs will hold its next meeting on Sunday at All Saints' Church and Van Dyke-Terhune roads. The program will be Cherubini - Requiem conducted by David Agler, Organist and Choir Master for All Saints'.

In addition to the members, anyone interested in choral singing, is invited to participate or attend, and should contact Mrs. M. B. Gottlieb, at 921-7214 if they wish to do so. There is a small charge for non-members to cover music and refreshments.

CONCERT TUESDAY

At Choir College. Members of the Westminster Choir College Preparatory faculty will present a concert of chamber music on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Westminster Playhouse. This concert, the fifth event on the 1973-74 Faculty Recital Series, is open to the public without charge.

Participating will be flutist Jayn Rosenfeld Seigel, cellist Joan Coulliette Thompson, pianist Diane Goodner Rivera, soprano Judith Nicosia, and classical guitarist Barry Martin Eisner.

The program will include Haydn's "Trio No. 31 in G Major," "Trio for Flute, Cello, and Piano" by Bohuslav Martinu, and "Deaux Poemes de Ronsard" by Roussel. which resulted in a complete revamping of the way the New York City police department handles seized illicit drugs.

It was produced and directed by Philip D'Antoni, who filled the same roles in "Bullit" and "The French Connection." "The Seven Ups" also boasts one of the most electrifying chases ever put on the screen. Those who saw 'Bullit" and "Connection"--and who will like "The Seven Ups" just as much--will have to judge for themselves.

IT'S NEW To Us

GIFTS FROM ALL OVER

At Seven Continents. Just over a year ago, Otto Schroker, a man who loves to travel, opened a store specializing in the many gifts he has admired from around the world. Called Seven Continents, the store reflects its name, with a varied selection from many countries.

Mr. Schroker particularly enjoys Mexico and we saw some folk art from there. For example, there is a brightly painted ceramic carousel with sculptured butterflies, pigs and chickens, $18.50; and bark paintings (also with those same bright Mexican colors) of flowers, birds and an unusual one portraying people, $8.95.

Made from tin, there are pierced lanterns painted in gay colors, $1.50 to $3.95; a painted mirror with small doors that can be closed, $14.95; a woven box, $10.95; and a tin tray with an etched diamond design, $6.95. The tray is internally reinforced with wood, and we were told about one that is still going strong after 15 years.

Other Mexican gifts include glass boxes with brass or tin trim. They come in many shapes and sizes including some octagonal ones -- perfect for flowers, jewelry or small displays, $3.95 and up. We also saw chess sets, animals, and a pretty white box shaped like a shell, all made of onyx.

From Israel. Israel is represented at Seven Continents by opaline glass plates, bowls and vases. This lovely and unusual translucent glass has been glazed in tones of rose, gold, cream and purple so that each piece is unique, $7.95 and up.

From Brazil we saw trays and plates with a colorful design made from beautiful South American irridescent butterflies; from Colombia there is a graceful zebra wood tray and straw animals; and from Spain there are wrought iron candleabras and porcelain cheese tiles and dishes.

Boxes from India are made of pierced brass for crickets, of intricately carved wood or of crushed turquoise. There is also a necklace of graduated beads made of this same turquoise, $7.95; and silk sari scarves in many pretty colors decorated with gold thread, $9.95.

Tribal jewelry from Ghana includes a padded leather bracelet, $5.95, and a shell necklace, $10.95. Then from Liberia we saw carved wooden masks, $18.95, and hand-carved ebony elephants with ivory tusks, $10.95.

American Indian Jewelry. In addition to the many gifts, Seven Continents has some lovely jewelry. For instance, there is a long rope necklace of many colored agates made in Nepal, $28.50, and carved camel bone necklaces and pierced earings, $2.95 and up.

However, if the store can be said to have a specialty, it would have to be American Indian jewelry from the Navajo and Zuni. They are proudest of a lovely double-strand Zuni fetish necklace composed of coral beads, turquoise and many tiny bears carved from mother-of-pearl and two from angel-skin coral, $215.

We also saw sterling silver rings, bracelets, earings and squash blossoms. While a small squash blossom necklace with turquoise stones is $120, the store also has a sterling squash blossom pendant for $15.95. We also saw a silver twisted rope bracelet, $18, and a bent silver one with a large, flat turquoise on the top, $39.

Seven Continents is at the Montgomery Shopping Center and is open Monday through Saturday from 10 to 5:30 with WINE LOVER?

Try Making Your Own. There is more than one way to stock a good wine cellar. For much less effort than you might at first think, you can ferment and bottle your own Pinor Noir, Beaujolais, Cabernet Sauvignon and a choice of many other fine wines.

The place to get started is Wine Hobby, USA, a store on Route 206 with all the necessary ingredients for making your own wine. For the novice there is a special kit that includes containers for mixing and fermenting, a siphon, a fermentation lock, yeast and enough grape concentrate to make one gallon of wine.

The process is quite simple. The wine and yeast are mixed in the primary container where fermentation begins. After several days when a thick layer of foam has developed, the wine is siphoned off into a secondary container which is topped with a fermentation lock. This lock allows the fermentation gasses to escape while preventing air from entering the wine.

Depending upon the type of wine, it will remain in this secondary container for three months to three years. For instance a Beaujolais might be ready for drinking in a short time, but a heavy Burgundy could take several years. The kit costs $12.75, and all the equipment is reusable.

All Secrets Shared. Wine Hobby is owned by Mrs. James Seagers, who is assisted by her husband in his free hours and Mrs. Shirley Yingling. They all make wine and are happy to answer any questions, either in the store or over the telephone if you get home and find yourself puzzled in the middle of a process. process.

In addition the store will test your wine free at any stage, and made suggestions on how to adjust if necessary. Mr. Seagers told us that winemakers are a congenial group of people who do not harbor professional secrets, but instead love to tell what worked for them.

Beginning February 25, the shop will offer a four-week Winemaking course with lectures, demonstrations, notes, a book, and a final night of wine tasting, $15. Mr. Seagers, an organic chemist who has worked in a winery and brewery, gives the lecture part while his wife and Mrs. Yingling demonstrate.

Once you are established at winemaking, Wine Hobby has many different grape concentrates, $3.95 and up for enough to make a gallon of wine; secondary containers from gallon jugs to huge barrels; bottles, both new and recycled; corks and corkers; labels which the store will have imprinted for your special stock and much more.

Every winemaking accessory imaginable is here, and usually there is a price range. For instance the corkers cost anywhere from $5.50 to $39.95. We especially liked the small packaging of the yeast, fermentation inhibitors and bisulfide, so that one package of tablet is premeasured and ready to be used.

Mr. Seagers suggests making wine in five-gallon units, because then when all the tasting by yourself and the neighbors is done, there will still be plenty left for bottling and aging. Legally, after purchasing a $3 New Jersey license, you can make up to 200 gallons of wine yearly in your home.

Once you are proficient at wine making, there are the country wines made from fruits to be tried. These are slightly more complicated because the acid and tanin which are naturally in grapes are missing from most fruits and must be added. Wine Hobby has many fruit concentrates such as cherry or apricot, and for a start these cans come with suggested formulas.

If you prefer beer, the store has grain, beer yeast and hops; and if soft drinks appeal, with Hires extract, sugar and yeast, you can get instant fermentation and make root beer.

With the energy crisis, Wine Hobby U.S.A. is slightly shortening its hours, and will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 6 with Thursday evening hours until 9.

EXHIBIT AT BANK

Of Ms. Johnson's Prints. An exhibition of prints by Margaret K. Johnson is on display at the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, 194 Nassau Street. The show, consisting of approximately 20 etchings and collographs, provides the viewer with an opportunity to see a comprehensive exhibit of Ms. Johnson's graphics.

The New Jersey National Bank invites the public to the show. The exhibit will be at the bank until January 18; — bank hours are 8:30 to 4 Monday through Thursday, 8:30 to 7 Friday and 9 to 12 Saturday morning.

CLASSES FORMING

At Art Association. Registrations are still being accepted for some of the Princeton Art Association classes. Courses are offered in various media including watercolor, weaving, painting (oils and acrylics), printmaking, relief printing, life drawing, design, carving & assemblage, jewelry, Chinese watercolor and contemporary color painting.

Young people will be interested in the PAA's Creative Workshop, Printmaking and Making People. For further information on the day and time classes are held, call the PAA Studio at 921-9173 or visit the studio at 3 Spring Street.

EXHIBIT AT SQUIBB

From Private Collections. Art from the private collections of Squibb employees is on exhibit in Squibb Gallery through January 18. The collection of 26 pieces includes paintings, drawings and sculpture.

The selection, chosen from more than 100 art works, was made by Zoltan Buki, Curator of Art, the New Jersey State Museum; Barry Snyder, Director, the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art; and Fred Scudder, Professor of Art at Rider College.

In keeping with the international scope of Squibb, the art has been collected from all over the world by Squibb employees and is as varied in style and technique as the many countries from which it has come.

Squibb Gallery is located in the Worldwide Headquarters of E. R. Squibb & Sons, Inc., on Route 206 just south of Princeton. Hours are 9 to 4:30, Monday through Friday.

VARIED EXHIBIT OPENS

At Loft Gallery. For the month of January, the fine art room of the Loft Art Gallery will exhibit the drawings of Marsha Kleinman, oil paintings by Conrad Newman and sculpture by Ulrich Frank.

The Princeton sculptor will show small fiber glass pieces, as well as his newest wooden pieces. Included is a whimsical frieze of female nudes, an agate set into a mesh of black walnut, a powerful Moses, acrobats, and a stenciled figure study.

following an accident in which they were involved at Valley and Jefferson roads.

According to the police investigation, Mr. Durling told Pt. Howard Sweeney that he did not see the stop sign on Jefferson Road. He was issued a summons for failing to stop. Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

The second driver was Lewis S. Gutterman, 37, of Trenton.

HOMES ARE ENTERED

On Shady Brook. Edgerstoune. The entry of two Township homes last week was investigated by Sgt. David Potts.

A rear door was pried open to enter the home of Harry J. Gildar, 12 Shady Brook Lane. Taken from the completely ransacked home were silver, cash, cameras and jewelry with a combined value of approximately $2,000. Mr. Gildar who reported the theft at 9:30 Thursday evening, told Sgt. Potts that the entry had occurred in the last three or four hours.

A driver for a cleaning firm reported at Monday noon the entry of a home at 23 Edgerstoune Road.

Police identified the occupant as Hans Roethel. A rock had been thrown through a rear kitchen window to gain entry. Police, who said that the interior had not been ransacked but had been neatly gone over, are continuing their investigation.

PAIR ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two young men were charged last week by Township police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance.

Released in their own recognizance pending a court appearance February 20 were Frederick Yeager Jr., 22, 325 Nassau Street, and John F. Brennan, 20 of Westfield. There were apprehended at 12:40 Sunday morning in their car parked at the off Autumn Hill Road by patrolmen Anthony Gaylord and Robert Nielsen making a routine check.

4 Juveniles Charged. Another routine stop by the same two officers at 1:30 Monday morning resulted in the arrest of four juveniles. All were charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Republicans Appalled.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Other residents of West Windsor Township and I are appalled by the blatant disregard the newly elected Democratic Committeemen, Stuart and Flatow, have for the voters of West Windsor.

Their campaign promises of "open government" were certainly not kept. At the Reorganization Meeting on January 3, people with expertise, knowledge and a willingness to work under this new administration were told their services were no longer needed. Among the 54 board appointments made, 34 positions went to Democrats and supporters of the Stuart-Flatow ticket. Of the remaining 20 positions, 3 went to Republicans.

One of the most glaring inconsistencies in the new appointments is Mrs. Helen Chase, who will replace Myles Redmond on the Planning Board. Mrs. Chase was Campaign Manager for the Stuart Flatow team. She has appeared before the Township Environmental Commission with Mrs. Ingrid Reed, a Democrat who also holds a seat on both the West Windsor and Mercer County Planning Board and is a strong supporter of the high-rise "Super-City" complex. At this appearance Mrs. Chase supported Mrs. Reed's statements that "Super-City" would have little environmental impact on West Windsor. Mrs. Chase has also presented a research report to the League of Women Voters (April 1971) which voices her favor of the PUD Twin Rivers concept in West Windsor.

In view of the fact that Mr. Flatow's own public survey in West Windsor showed that the residents want single family housing, not "Twin Rivers" and on his own statement before the election that he was against "Super City" we'd like to know why Mrs. Chase is given a voting seat in planning the future development of our Township? She is actually the very thing she publicly accused Mr. Redmond of being - a political appointment. Mr. Redmond's philosophy fits that which was mouthed by Stuart and Flatow before the election. Yet they choose Mrs. Chase! That's really open government, Mrs. Campaign Manager!!

We also wonder if the people in West Windsor are aware that the new Mayor Stuart was not permitted by Judge Shock to vote on November 6. A recent Mercer County Board of Election hearing ruled that Mr. Stuart only acquired a bono-fide residence in West Windsor on December 1, 1973. Stemming from this hearing, Mr. Flatow admitted publicly that Mrs. Ruth LePrevost was removed from the Recreation Committee because she appeared as a witness against Mr. Stuart at this hearing!

Open Government? In 1972, Republican Committeeman Walter appointed Jim Cahill, a Democrat and Dick Armstrong, a Republican, to the Board of Health. Mr. Cahill's term expired December 31, 1973 and he has unquestionably been reappointed by the new Democratic administration. Yet they are trying to remove Mr. Armstrong whose term does not expire until December 31,1974. Mr. Armstrong's valued background in sub-division and site-plan review was the main reason for his appointment to this board. Another example of "open government"?

We also deplore the appointment of Harry Heher as attorney for West Windsor. He is also the attorney for Lawrence Township. As conflicts of interest arise, Mr. Heher will have to step aside and West Windsor will have to hire another attorney at still another fee. We expected them to select a Democrat for this post but let's make it one who is not beholden to two townships. West Windsor deserves its own attorney!

We strongly feel the new Democratic Administration has not lived up to its' promise of "open government". We think they cheated the people who voted for them and trusted them. These people should appear at Township Hall and demand what was promised - "Open government"!!

Vague Charges, Innuendos.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter I have written to Councilman Martin Lombardo:

In your New Year's Day remarks you made the allegation that projects in the community were being thwarted by the action or inaction of certain groups in non-profit organizations. (TOWN TOPICS, January 3.)

I would not ordinarily react publicly to such a statement. However, it is obvious that a person in your position cannot make unsupported statements which could conceivably be applicable to any agency within a broad range without raising questions in the minds of the public.

Your statements also cast a shadow on the work of the many people from all parts of our community who given years of unselfish service. Therefore, I feel it is proper for me, as a member of Township Committee which is both ideologically and financially committed to the support of the commissions involved with these agencies, to urge you to be specific.

Do not indict by vague charges and innuendos, Mr. Lombardo! Come forward with your allegations in order that honest disagreements can be discussed in an atmosphere of openness and goodwill without threat of some personal reaction on your part as an elected official.

The Frustrated Recycler

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I could not resist making this comment after reading the front page story on recycling. I had an awful lot of fun putting on paper one little thing that bugs and yet amuses me day in and day out.

POLLY MILLER
60 Brookstone Drive

We're ardent all right,
Real recycling nuts.
We collect day and night
Sorting, washing and such.
The Township we live in
But visit the Borough
To leave off our tin
At a neighbors - we're thorough!
From duty we won't shrink
Or from itsy bits of wrappers
Floating in the sink,
And we will shut our clappers
But we do have one big gripe;
We have someone to throttle
Oh citizens, we'll strike
Those companies that bottle.
They must find a glue
That hold the labels tight
But for the sake of me and you
Comes off with little might.
We have spent so many hours
Yea gallons of water wasted,
All different kinds of scours
To unstick those labels pasted.
Someone write an essay
On hints for goop undoing
To aid us on our way,
Or better yet new gluing!

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was very disgusted to note that there wasn't any mention of girls sports in your article on "1973 in review" two weeks ago.

For your information, Joyce Jones' field hockey team at PHS won the Mercer County Championship, their district title and finished the season as the number two team in the state!! I do believe that this was worth mentioning.

I hope that in the future you will realize that girls sports are just as important to print as boys.

Released to the custody of their parents pending juvenile court action were two 16-year-old girls, one a resident of Princeton the other from Trenton, and two 17-year-old boys, both Trenton residents. They were arrested in a car parked at Stockton Road and Lovers Lane.

TO DISCUSS BUDGET

Under New System, A Proposed Township budget, whose 8.7 percent increase in revenue is nicely balanced by an 8.7 percent increase in expenditure, was received by Committee Monday night from Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

"This is an historic 'first'," commented Mayor Jay Bleiman. Under a new system, the Administrator, aided by the Township's staff, prepares a detailed preliminary budget and lays it before Committee for study.

"What we have here isn't necessarily the budget we'll introduce in February," explained Mayor Bleiman. He said Committee will talk about the proposed budget, then meet with the Borough for more discussion.

Mr. Nini's budget of $3,063,791 compares to last year's $2,817,800. The amount to be raised by taxes is 9.8 percent higher than last year's: the tax rate proposed is 52c per $100 of asscssed valuation compared to the '73 figure of 47c. The Administrator said preliminary figures on possible rateables showed $256,000,000.

The proposed budget continues present programs, but has no "significant" expansion and no new programs, Mr. Nini said.

In other business Monday night, Committee did its share to set up a Borough-Township Joint Solid Waste Management Study Committee. Its members---two each, Borough and Township--will find out what other towns are doing about solid waste and explore alternatives.

The committee is asked to report by July 15, with recommendations on how to save money, improve service and sustain the environment, but Barbara Smoyer, Township Committee member, urged an earlier report date than July 15. Committee's representative on the new board will be Ellen Peterson.

Mayor Bleiman named Mimi Gersben, 60 Phillips Drive, to the Traffic Safety Committee.

BLAST INJURES STUDENT

At Frick Laboratory. Two separate experiments being conducted by Princeton University chemistry students erupted explosively over the Christmas vacation, sending one of them to the Princeton Medical Center.

Reinhardt Sahmel, a 22-year-old senior from Staten Island who lives in Princeton at 80 Alexander Street, was admitted to the Medical Center following the explosion on the night of December 28. His eardrums had been ruptured, his face was cut and burned and his eyes swollen from the force of the blast.

"It looked a lot worse at first than it actually was," said a spokesman for the Chemistry Department. "his face was bleeding badly. Fortunately he was wearing glasses that protected his eyes. He's just very lucky." Mr. Sahmel was released from the hospital within a week.

George H. Senkler, a graduate student who lives at 8A Jackson Drive, Belle Mead, was tending his experiment on December 26 when it exploded and burst into flames. The apparatus and chemicals were located in a protective metal hood and most of the flames were confined to that area. Heat from the fire melted several plastic electrical fixtures above the hood.

The blast sent fragments of glass flying across the room, but Mr. Senkler, who was sitting behind a portable blackboard at the time, escaped injury. "Also lucky," said the departmental spokesman. A fire extinguisher was used to quell the blaze.

Explosive Mixture. The cause of the more serious blast on December 28 was suspected to be a faulty piece of apparatus, which contained a chemical that was being purified in a vacuum system. The container broke and the chemicals, including lithium aluminum hydride, came in contact with air--an explosive mixture under the cir cumstances.

Mr. Senkler's experimen. involved perchlorate salt, which detonated accidently. "He had done the same operation many times before and had never had any problems," Professor Kurt Mislow said, chairman of the department. "These incidents are a reminder that chemicals are inherently dangerous. We can never be too careful."

LIBRARY WORK

In Rocky Hill. Construction is under way in Rocky Hill on a new public library which will serve the 10,000 people of Rocky Hill and Montgomery Township.

Official groundbreaking took place Saturday morning with representatives of both communities on hand for the ceremony. Completion of the building is scheduled for early fall of this year. The building, a colonial-style, two story brick structure, designed to harmonize with the atmosphere of the borough, will provide space for up to 15,000 books.

Officially named the Mary Jacobs Memorial Library, the facility was made possible by a bequest from Harold Jacobs, a Philadelphian who died in April, 1972. The memorial is in honor of his late wife, who was born and grew up in Rocky Hill.

Mr. Jacobs worked closely with representatives of the Rocky Hill Community Group in planning the memorial. In addition to other activities, the Community Group has for some years provided a small but busy library for the area, staffed by volunteers.

The bequest for the new library was left to a foundation, headed by Andrew B. Young, a Philadelphia attorney and executor of Mr. Jacobs' estate. Mrs. Laura Stabler, a past president of the Rocky Hill Community Group, is trustee and secretary.

Professional Staff. The new structure will be located on Washington Street adjacent to the Community Group headquarters, the oldest building in Rocky Hill. Designed in a joint venture by William Thompson and Jeremiah Ford, both Princeton architects, it will contain 5,000 square feet of space, an elevator and all facilities for a modern library.

Construction is being done by Hunt & Augustine, Princeton builders, and the landscaping will be by J.A. French Associates, also of Princeton.

The library will be a branch of the Somerset County Library system and will be administered by professionally trained staff from the County Library with the assistance of the volunteers from Rocky Hill and Montgomery who have run the existing library for many years.

The groundbreaking ceremonies, which followed some five years of consultation with Mr. Jacobs, governmental officials and library specialists, was attended by the mayors of both communities, Anthony Bianculli of Rocky Hill, and David Landry of Montgomery, and representatives of Somerset County.

Space in the Community Group house now devoted to the library will be used for the roup's other educational and cultural activities, including those of the Historical Society.

NEEDLEWORK IS TOPIC

Of Historical Society Lecture. The second lecture of the sixth annual Historical Society of Princeton series will be this Tuesday at 10:30 in Pierce Hall of Trinity Church.

Elizabeth McGrail of Hopewell and a teacher at Trenton State College, will speak on "Nineteenth Century American Samplers And Other Needlework." Mrs. McGrail began collecting and studying needlework about six years ago, and has opened a store specializing in the craft. She will talk about New Jersey needlework as art and will show documented examples of family register, alphabel, and school house samplers.

The lecture will be preeeded by coffee at 10. There is a contribution of $1.50 per lecture or $5 for the series. Reservations are needed and can be made through Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau Street, or by phoning 921-6748 or 921-6817. The lectures are open to everyone.

The third lecture will feature Ralph Collier, of the Campbell Soup Museum speaking on "Tureens and Ladies I Have Known," the following Tuesday.

NEW FEATURE ADDED

To Senior Citizen Luncheons. A new dimension has been added to the weekly senior citizens back-to-school luncheon program held at 1 p.m. on Thursday in the cafeteria of the Littlebrook School in Princeton.

A weekly newsletter, "Special Communicator for Seniors," is now distrihuted at the luncheons. The bulletin, prepared by the Princeton Area Council of Communily Services, describes a wide range of current activities and services that are available to older adults in the greater Princeton area.

Agencies and organizations wishing to place announcements in the newsletter are invited to call the Council of Community Services at 924-5865. The weekly deadline for notices is Tuesday noon.

Back-to-School luncheons are held each Thursday when the Princeton Regional Schools are in session. The first luncheon after the winter holidays will be held this Thursday at 1 p.m. The charge for the meal is $1. Senior citizens in Princeton and neighboring communities may make reservations and request transportation by calling the American Red Cross, Princeton Chapter at 924-2404 before noon on the Tuesday preceding the luncheon.

EIGHT ARE PROMOTED

In Homemaker Service. The Princeton Community Homemaker Service has recently promoted eight women into new positions in the home and health care service.

Mrs. Anne Louise Elkins, a homemaker for many years with the agency, is now assisting the executive director in the office.

Seven women were graduated from the fall training course and are now serving as homemaker-home health aides. They are Mrs. Florence Barnes, Mrs. Eleanor Cox, Mrs. Dorothy McCarthy, Mrs. Eula McCullough, Mrs. Mary McDonald, Mrs. Mary Ann Marshall and Mrs. Harriet Wiseman.

Mrs. Catherine Phillips, R.N., director of the Princeton Homemaker Service, was among the teachers conducting the course taught at the Hunterdon Medical Center in Flemington. Others teaching from Princeton were Mrs. Edith Umbrecht, R.N., and Mrs. Janet Alward, R.N., both from the Visiting Nurse Association.

These seven women and the forty other homemakers may be contacted at the Princeton Community Homemaker Service (924-5862) for assistance when illness or any other emergency strikes a family.

Kohoutek Anyone?

The observation deck on the roof of Peyton Hall will be open through Friday to visitors who want to catch a glimpse of Comet Kohoutek. The viewing hours are 6 to 8 p.m.

Neither telescopes nor lectures will be offered, but members of the observatory staff will be on deck to explain what--and where--Kohoutek is. Inclement weather will cancel the proceedings.

Binoculars are recommended.

SPORTS FANS!
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

The men who run the sport of auto racing have come up with some interesting figures to defend their sport in the energy crisis... They say that one baseball or football team's chartered airplane flight on one round trip between California and New York uses more fuel than all the cars that run in both the Indianapolis 500 and the Daytona 500 mile races!

Out of the 335 bowl games that have been played since 1902, this season's Sugar Bowl game between Alabama and Notre Dame was only the ninth that involved two teams that both had perfect records going into the game.

To show how great a football player Jimmy Brown was, look at this fact: Brown played in the National Football League for nine seasons, from 1957 through 1965, and he led the league in rushing every year but one... No one else has ever come close to leading the league in rushing eight different seasons as Brown did.

I know a person earning $25,000 who came down with a chronic illness, began using up all his savings and then started hoping to die--just to save something for his family. Our new $100,000 catastrophe major medical would have helped.

Trounced by Penn, Princeton Basketball Team Begins Battle for Second Place This Weekend

Thoroughly outclassed by a Pennsylvania quintet which was not itself overly impressive, Princeton's basketball team will play two Ivy League games this weekend as it launches what can at best be a battle for second place.

The Quakers are not as good as their pre-season rating, when they were erroneously ranked as high as 11th in the national standings, but they started a team composed of three juniors and two sophomores, and they are going to get better. On the other hand, whether Princeton (one senior and four sophomores) can improve much is questionable, and no one else in the Ivy League is likely to do more than throw an occasional scare into the well-balanced Pennsylvanians.

In losing as definitively as a team can when the final spread is no more than ten points (69-59), Princeton committed virtually every mistake in the basketball book. The uncertain Tigers, who have no one capable of taking charge offensively, make far too many defensive errors to stay close to a good team in a low-scoring contest.

At least half a dozen of the Quakers' field goals were wholly uncontested baskets, scored when the man shooting was left as uncovered as if he had been on the foul line. One of Penn's three senior captains, Whitey Varga, had an average of just three points coming into the game but hit on all four of his shots without ever having a haud in his face. None of the trio of senior captains is indispensable to the Quakers, whose young team gives every indication of being able to dominate the Ivies for the next two seasons at least.

Tiger Offense Shows Little. As it has so often this year, Princeton matched the opposition in field goals (23 apiece) and lost the game at the foul line, 23 to 13. However, in equallilng Penn's total in two-point plays, the Tigers needed 59 shots to the 44 that Penn's frugal but accurate offense took and the resultant discrepancy in percentages favored the victors by a tell-tale 52 to 39.

Three Princetonians, one of whom did not start, fouled out, while none of the visitors drew five personals. Not one of the ten players Pete Carril tossed into the fray played well consistently.

Captain Andy Rimol contributed 12 points in the first 20 minutes but only two in the second half and wound up on the bench when his outside shooting tapered off badly in the closing minutes. Armond Hill picked up three fouls in the first 11 minutes and spent the rest of the first half on the bench, eventually fouling out along with Barnes Hauptfuhrer.

Tim van Blommesteyn produced a dozen points, ten of them in the second half, but also fouled out during the all-court pressure requisite to playing catch-up ball. Carril shuttled everyone but Rimol in and out of action in an effort to find five players who could provide a coordinated attack, but such a team was, on Saturday at least, non-existent.

Earty Lead Vanishes. Hitting on its first three field goal attempts, Princeton took a 6-2 lead at the outset and remained in front during virtually all of the first ten minutes. Midway through the period, however, Quaker guard John Beecroft's free throw put the Red and Blue ahead at 13-12, and Princeton never caught up.

The Tigers might have left the floor with only a four point half-time deficit but yielded an unnecessary buzzer shot that would have produced a three-point play had sophomore John Engles converted. A tip-in by Hauptfuhrer cut the margin to 29-25 when action resumed, but almost immediately, Penn shooting began to improve over its 46 percent in the first half and Princeton's started to slide rapidly in the other direction. In the final 20 minutes, the Orange and Black hit on a scant third of its shots.

The day's lone plus factor for the Tigers was their willingness to battle back in

by JOHN SUTTON

Sports began when self-protection was not a pressing need for every man. Archery, of course, was a hunting skill, although it did not become an organized sport until about 300 A.D.. Wrestling is probably the earliest dated sport, known to be in existence as a game before 3,000 B.C.. The earliest known ball game is polo, first recorded in 525 B.C.. Sport was and has been a real civilizing influence of man.

And SPORTS 'N' THINGS, Montgomery Shopping Center, Rt. 206 & 518, 924-8162 has a great selection of sporting equipment to meet your sports needs. Choose from a full array of equipment for tennis, hockey, golf, basketball and fishing. We also re-string tennis rackets. BankAmericard, Master Charge honored. Tiger Hockey Team Yields Five Goals In Final Period as Disarray Reigns

At a time when eastern college hockey is virtually teaderless and the Ivy League championship is up for grabs for the first time in nearly a decade, Princeton's rud-derless sextet played a third period in a decisive game Monday night so badly that it couldn't be betieved even when seen.

Leading a sub-par Clarkson team by 3-2 going into the final round, the Tigers would have leap-frogged into fourth place in the Division I rankings had they maintained their ad-vantage. Instead, they played a desultory game on offense and watched with the long-suffering spectators while the visitors hit on a varied array of shots that made it a 7-3 final for the Golden Knights.

If there is one quality above others that Princeton lacks this winter, it is cohesion. When they have the puck, the Tigers' passing is consistently inaccurate; when they must cover opponents on defense and work methodically to clear the puck from their own zone, the results are often wholly inadequate. In their last two games, against op-position that is far short of being impressive, they have allowed 14 goats, despite the fact that in Phil Robinson they have one of the better net-minders in the east.

More than incidentally, this is the number one problem confronting any longed-for resurgence in Princeton hockey. Robinson is a senior, there is no adequate replacement for him at either the varsity or the freshman level, and even if the numerous problems con-fronting the Tigers somehow begin to melt away, they will go no where without a good goalie. This year, they are not even taking advantage of his presence.

Clarkson Below Normal. Over a period of years, the many Canadians skating for the Potsdam, N.Y., technical college have kept the Knights near the top of the eastern rankings. Last March, they upset Harvard in the ECAC playoffs and then blanked Penn in the consolation finals.

Heavy graduation losses were a factor in bringing them into Baker Rink with a 4-6 mark and a record as low as 1-3 in Division I play. On top of that, they started a freshman goalie who was none too sure of himself.

The Tigers beat him twice in the opening period, on a pair of long shots from just inside the blue line at the left corner. One was credited to sophomore defenseman Al Rosner, the other on a breakaway to junior wing Mark Stuckey.

Clarkson, however, scored twice on Robinson, the second goal a strictly garbage gift when the puck bounced around just outside the crease and no one gave the Tiger goalie a helping hand. The Tigers then took a 3-2 lead in the middle period, but only because they had a three-minute power play when a Clarkson defenseman was given a major (and game disqualification) for spearing Craig Dahl.

Tigers Lead Briefly. Dahl, too, went off the ice at the same time for roughing, but when he returned, Princeton had a man advantage for three minutes no matter how often it scored. Thirteen seconds after the power play began, Mike Bascom knocked in a short poke shot but that was all the Orange and Black could muster. It proved to be wholly inadequate.

Sylvain Larose, the sophomore goalie who took over for Clarkson at the start of the second period, blanked the frustrated home team for the final 40 minutes with the exception of the lone power-play goal. With less than three minutes gone in the third round, Clarkson drew even, went ahead at the six-minute mark on a power play and then proceeded to break the game open with three more scores in the final eight minutes.

The Tigers' disarray is disheartening to the faithful Rink Rats, a surprising number of whom were present for the Monday night game. Injuries have pared the team's available personnel (center Brad Richards is out until February 1 with a shoulder dislocation and defenseman Ogden Hunnewell is lost for the season with a knee injury), but there is adequate ability to play better than .500 hockey.

Off the loss to Clarkson and a resultant 6-6 mark to date against the weaker part of the current schedule, there is little hope for victory in either of the games this weekend against Harvard and Dart-mouth in New England. That, too, is another straw on the back of the overburdened Tiger fan: with Cornell losing successive games to Brown and Yale last week for the first time since the Ithacans began their long string of first-place finishes in the mid '60s, almost any team can win the tvy title this year. The Tigers--and Brown, which they defeated last month--appear to be the lone exceptions.

the face of adversity. Down by t8 (49-31) with 12 minutes to play, they cut as many as ten points off the Quakers' lead with a series of steals and all-court pressure.

A sleeper basket that found five Princetonians and four Penn players in the Quakers' end of the floor hurt the abortive rally, as did Penn's fine foul shooting. Inevitably, the victors waited for the Tiger defense to commit itself, the Quakers drew a string of personals and made their last t4 points at the foul line.

..Harvard Starts Well. For a team that lost a number of top players and replaced its coach, Harvard has begun impressively. The Crimson edged Dartmouth by one point at Hanover and then defeated a good Brown quintet at Cambridge to take an early lead in the Ivy race.

Tom Sanders, formerly a Boston Celtic and the new coach at Harvard, has built his team around Captain Tony Jenkins, a lithe 6-8 forward who earned All-Ivy and All-New England honors as a junior. Lou Silver and Bill Carey, 6-7 and 6-5, provide added height, with Ken Wolfe, Arnie Needleman and Mike Griffin sharing the backcourt duties. The Crimson lacks depth but figures to give Princeton a strong game here Friday night.

Dartmouth, no better than 6 and 20 a year ago, has only two seniors on its squad--Captain Bill Raynor, the Ivies' sophomore-of-the-year in 1972, and 6-7 Tom Eggleston. A 6-8 sophomore, Mark Donoghue, is the starting center.

The Green, due here Saturday night, figures to finish in second division, as do Yale, Cornell and Columbia. The latter three are all well below the .500 mark as the Ivy race moves into high gear. Princeton, Brown and Harvard will wage a three-way battle for runner-up honors, but Penn can go t4-and-0 if it plays up to its capabilities through the end of February--a demanding hut not insurmountable assignment against the calibre of opposition the rest of the league furnishes.

HORNETS STUNG, 72-65

By Hun Quintet. Outscoring Hamilton, 4t to 23, in the middle two periods, the Hun School basketball team Friday defeated the home team Hornets, 72-65, for its third straight win and sixth of the season.

The victory was engineered primarily by Hun's Biff Hollowell, who poured in a season-high 27 points, by Tony Trani, who contributed 18—10 from the free throw line—and by reserve Mike Troyanovitch, who coach Dave Leete said, "made some key foul shots and key baskets." Troyanovitch finished with 14.

Hun will try to fatten its streak when it plays host to Newark Academy Friday in an 8 p.m. contest. On Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, it will entertain neighboring Princeton Day School, which it defeated in the finals of the Hightstown Christmas Tourney, handing the Panthers their first loss.

This Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 Hun was scheduled to travel to Hightstown to oppose Peddie, last year's prep school champion in the area.

Agalnst Hamilton, Hun played one of its best games of the season. Leete agreed. "We played very well for the first three quarters," he said. "It got a little tricky there in the final quarter but we managed to rally again."

After trailing by 18 at the start of the final period, Hamilton pulled its game together and at one point tossed in 10 unanswered points to narrow the gap to 60-55. It wasn't enough to prevent the Hornets, however. from tumbling to their fourth straight loss.

Troyanovitch, Leete reported, came off the bench when co-captain Brent Bystrzycki got into early foul trouble and later in the game did the same for Hollowell. In both roles he contributed key plays and baskets. Leete also singled out the play of guard Trani for his ball handling and shooting. "He did a really nice job," he said.

Overall, Leete observed that the team was coming around a lot better, following its two losses in the Peddie Invitational Tournament and its last minute loss to Princeton High.

"We may have peaked too early and were in a little slump," said Leete. "We played well in the Hightstown Tournament and we didn't even play badly against Princeton High. We had the game but we just threw it away."

STUDENT CROWNED

State Squash Champion. Wendy Zaharko, Princeton University senior who plays No. 1 on its women's squash team, captured the New Jersey state championship Sunday when she defeated two-time national champion, Mrs. Nina Moyer of Pennington.

The scores were 15-4, 15-12, 12-15 and 15-12. The game that Miss Zaharko dropped to Mrs. Moyer was the only one she lost in the two-day tournament held for the 21st year at the Pretty Brook Tennis Club on Pretty Brook Road.

One of the tournament directors reported that Miss Zaharko played "fabulous, beautiful squash. She was on top of her game." For Mrs Moyer, t970 and '72 national champion who did not participate last year, it was her first tournament since she gave birth to a child a year ago.

To reach the final round, Miss Zaharko defeated 16-year-old Gail Ramsay, 15-7, t8-14, 17-16. Mrs. Moyer stopped Miss Agnes Bixler, 15-5, t5-6, 15-t0 to gain the finals.

In the quarter-final round, Miss Zaharko defeated Mrs. Barbara Maltby of Philadelphia, 15-13, 15-9, 15-9; Mrs. Moyer defeated Miss Kirk Cameron, 15-8, 11-15, t5-5, t5-12; Miss Bixler defeated Mrs. Baba Lewis, 15-10, 15-6, t5-8; and Miss Ramsay defeated Mrs. Jacqueline Green of Yardley t5-10, 15-13, 17-15.

In consolation play, Miss Sally Fields, last year's girls squash champion at Princeton University, defeated the 1974 captain, Miss Clair Townsend, t5-8, 15-6, 17-15; and Mrs. Pieter Fisher, 105 Audubon Lane, defeated Mrs. Patricia Nagi, t4-17, 15-8, 16-13, t5-11.

PDS DEFENSE EXCELS

In 75-29 Win. When one basketball team defeats another by a score of 75-29, the game must have been a colossal mismatch, right? Not in the case of Princeton Day School's victory over Newark Academy, argues Panther Coach Alan Taback. His evidence is convincing.

"Newark is a big school and it plays a good schedule," said Taback of the opposition. "They came into the game 4-2—they had split in the Peddie Christmas tournament. We were 4-1. I expected this to be an exceptionally tough game."

So what happened. "Defense," said Taback. "Ron Webster and Tom Dalrymple played great defense." Webster held Eric Williams, a 6-5 forward who last year was all-state prep and third-team general all-state, to just 12 points. Williams had been averaging 25 points per game.

Dalrymple limited Newark's other 6-5 forward to eight points--exactly half of what he had been averaging going into the game.

Princeton Day's full court, man-to-man press, with occasional double-teaming, which it uses all the time in all its games, strangled Newark's attack from the very beginning. "They just couldn't get off a good shot," said Taback.

Demoralized. PDS jumped out to a 19-3 lead after the first quarter. By the end of the third period Webster had 24, Frank Konstantynowicz had 12, Dalrymple 9, and Evan Bash, 7.

Taback used his bottom five players as a unit through the final quarter. They outscored Newark, 25-5. "I guess Newark might have been demoralized by that time," said Taback.

The Panthers have home contests with undefeated Solebury School and defending B state prep champion Croydon Hall this week. The Solebury game was Wednesday; Croydon is Friday night at 8.

Next Wednesday Princeton Day visits the Hun School, which handed PDS its only defeat in the finals of the Hightstown tournament. According to Taback, none of these games is a mismatch either.

LAWRENCEVILLE NEXT

For PtlS Matmen. The Princeton High School wrestling team, still looking for its first dual meet victory of the season, will entertain a strong Lawrenceville School team Saturday afternoon at 3:15 in the PHS gym.

Next Wednesday evening, the Little Tigers will travel to Hamilton which is participating in the sport for the first time this year. This Wednesday evening at 8, PHS was scheduled to oppose Notre Dame High School at Notre Dame.

Presently, the Little Tigers, team champions in the Mercer County Christmas Wrestling Tournament, are 0-2 in dual meet competition.

CLASSES START MONDAY

For Adult Indoor Tennis. Classes for the adult indoor winter tennis schedule, sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program, will begin on Monday and run for eight weeks.

Adult beginner will be taught on Mondays from 5:30 to 7, adult advanced beginners the same day from 7 to 8:30 p.m. These classes will be held at the Community Park Inflatable.

Classes for elderly adults will be held Fridays for advanced beginners from 3 to 4 and for intermediates from 4 to 8. These classes will be held at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road.

The fee for both the adults and elderly classes is $40. For information regarding registration, call The Princeton Community Tennis Program, 924-4343.

KING'S COURT SOLD

To Alchemist and Barrister. Princeton's newest restaurantcurs were sitting in the dimly lit barroom of their establishment, the King's Court at 28 Witherspoon Street, trying to figure out how to talk like restauranteurs.

"We're interested in putting something into this community, not taking anything out," said Walter Krieg, the tall one with the moustache, in response to a question from a reporter. "But you can put that anyway you want--the way it sounds best."

Mr. Krieg smiled and added, "You can also say we've got the best drinks in town."

Frank Armenante, his partner, shorter and clean shaven, nodded in agreement: "You can say that because it's really true. We really do have the best drinks in town." Mr. Armenante smiled and added: "The bartender is my brother, Nick. Hey, Nick. Come here and meet these fellows."

Nick Armenante, bearded, came over to the table. "I'm also the musical director and spiritual leader," he said. He was smiling too.

Infectious Smiles. The reasons for both the uncertainty in handling the reporter's questions and the infectious smiles were simple. Walter Krieg is 29 years old; Frank Armenante is 31 and Nick is 30. King's Court is the first restaurant they have owned. On this day, just four days after they took over from Norman Aronson on New Year's Eve, they were still getting their feet on the ground and still very much excited about their prospects.

Mr. Krieg and Frank Armenante are officially the new owners and their backgrounds ought to make them candidates for the Dewar's White Label Scotch advertisements.

Mr. Krieg is a graduate of St. Peter's College, with a master's degree from Rutgers University in organic chemistry. He has been an instructor in chemistry at Rutgers, a paint formulator for Sherwin-Williams and the leader of a training program for minority students interested in becoming chemical and biological laboratory technicians. In 1971 he published a paper in the Journal of Organic Chemistry titled "Interaction of Silver Ion with Some Strained Olefins."

Frank Armenante has a B.S. in accounting from St. Peter's, an M.B.A. in finance from Seton Hall, and a law degree from Rutgers. He practices law and will continue to practice law from his own office in Allentown, where he lives with his wife and two children.

More to Life. Together they are "The Alchemist and the Barrister," which is what they intend to rename the King's Court.

That change, as well as others they have planned, will not be made for several weeks, however, "You can't do a million things at once. We want to concentrate on mastering the food operation first," said Mr. Krieg. "We want to make a gradual transition into the kind of place where people--especially people in their 20s and 30s--but generally people who think there's more to life than just sitting at home, can come and find something happening."

"I'm a chess enthusiast," Mr. Krieg continued, "and a friend of mine is Sal Mattera, champion of the Marshall Chess Club in New York. We hope he can come down here and play a simultaneous exhibition in the front room. We'll offer two free dinners to anyone who can beat him."

The new owners said the menu would remain substantially the same for the time being. The biggest immediate change was in the hours. The soon-to-be renamed King's Court is now open from 11 a.m. to midnight weekdays, and until 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and from 5 to 9 Sundays.

"But don't think that we'll close up at midnight if people want to stay later than that," said Mr. Krieg. He and Nick Armenante, bachelors now living in apartments above the restaurant, apparently had discovered in only one week how quiet Princeton can be after 6 o'clock.

PROMOTION ANNOUNCED

At First National Bank. H. Lester Barlow of West Windsor has been named Senior Vice-President of the First National Bank of Princeton. The latest in a series of promotions for him was announced by John F. Hoff III, president of Princeton's First National.

Most recently a vice-president, Mr. Barlow joined the bank in 1941. He had been manager of the bank's Princeton Junction office at 40 Washington Road from 1956 to 1972.

In his new role as Senior Vice-President, Mr. Barlow has been assigned executive responsibilities in a number of key areas, including branch operations, training, business development and marketing.

H. Lester Barlow

Mr. Barlow is a member of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A., the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church and the Princeton Water Company. A graduate of many courses at the American Institute of Banking, he is now an instructor.

He lives at 217 Washington Road in West Windsor with his wife, Jean. They have two children.

Assistant Basketball Coach Named at PHS

Dick Phebus, new assistant to Princeton High basketball coach Marv Trotman and jayvee coach, grew up in Indiana where, he said, "they breathe basketball." A graduate of Monon High School, Dick attended Indiana University when the Van Arsdale twins, Tom and Dick, now professional players, were starting their careers.

Too small to break into the starting lineup as a player in Indiana, Dick, who has followed the game closely ever since, reported that if he couldn't make it as a player he always wanted to coach the sport. Now he has his chance at a school where the sport is on the ascendancy. He is a psychology teacher in the Princeton school system.

SHOWDOWN HERE FRIDAY

Ewing vs. PHS on Court. "Well, we did it. We finally played some defense."

Princeton High School's defense in the final period against visiting Notre Dame Tuesday was testimony enough and PHS coach Marv Trotman's comment above was only underlining the obvious. The Little Tigers held the Irish scoreless until 3:25 was left in the final period and limited the visitors to just six points during the remaining time to break open a close game and win easily, 62-48.

The victory was Princeton High's first in Mercer County and set the stage for a showdown Friday afternoon at 3:45 when undefeated Ewing will visit the Tiger's den. The game will pit two area standouts—Bobby King of PHS against Ewing's Hollis Copeland. Princeton is the first defending County champion, since last year was the first time there was an official Mercer League.

In a home afternoon game Wednesday (3:45), PHS must face another big gun in Peddie, last year's area prep school champion. After the smoke from these two games clears it should be clear where PHS hopes stand for a second championship. Ewing and Trenton High are the preseason choices to battle it out for county honors this winter.

The Irish entered the game against PHS Tuesday with a 5-3 record and four men, who coach Don Hess pointed out "were in double figures in nearly every game."

Here's what happened. Mike Hoffman, the lone junior on the All-Mercer County team last year, was held to six points. None in the second half. Drew Cleveland, the Irish's center and top rebounder and one of the leading scorers on the team, was held to four points in the second half. He finished with 13.

Scrappy Tom Geoghan had 12 for the losers. No one else finished in double figures.

Notre Dame, in turn, was causing PHS to turn over the ball repeatedly with its zone press. The Little Tigers tried to run in the first half. They opted for the long, looping pass to beat the press instead of hitting the man in the middle. It ran, but disaster usually waited underneath the basket. There was no rhythm, no flow. "Okay, racehorse, take it easy," shouted Trotman from the bench.

"We want to run but run with caution, not haphazardly. Once we settled down in the final quarter we started to look like a ball club," Trotman commented. "That's what I've been saying all year; we're a young club. If we get some consistency later on we're going to be a good club. Even Trenton will notice us."

King "Held" to 18. Notre Dame's only solace was in holding Bobby King to 18 points—his lowest output of the season. Bobby was missing underneath as his layups were going over the rim. The 18 was still the game high for King who entered the contest with a 25.3 average.

Ted Brown aod Pete Watson took up the slack. Brown hit 10 of his 12 points in the second half, six in the final period. He also did a tremendous job, Trotman pointed out, in guarding Cleveland. Watson excelled in the first half, scoring nine of his 11 points aod keeping PHS ahead in a tight game. "He was super under the boards," agreed Trotman. It was his best game of the season.

PHS had led by four at the end of the first period and increased its lead to 10, 28-18, near the end of the half. But the Irish came back in the third to tie it at 40 with two minutes left to go in the third and trailed by 44-42 at the start of the final period.

It was all Princeton. Brown hit on two jumpers and Steve Towns and Watson added single baskets to increase Princeton's margin to 10 again before Geogahn got the Irish's first basket with 3:25 left. After Brown dropped in another, King scored the next six on a bucket, three-point play and conversion of a technical whistled against Geoghan. By this time Hoffman was on the bench crying.

"Hoffman is a good player; he just had a bad day," observed Trotman, "not that our kids didn't have something to do with it. We really wanted to win this one."

Also contributing points for PHS were Steve Towns, who had seven in addition to playing his usual fine floor game; Craig Robinson with six, Randy Bullock with four (all in the first period), Roland Alexander and Daryl Marshall, two each.

SPECIAL DAYS PLANNED

For Winter Sports. Princeton University's Athletic Department will offer two "Youth Group Days" and two "Family Days" for New Jersey and Pennsylvania residents this winter, Athletic Director Royce N. Flippin, Jr. has announced.

The Youth Group Days will fall on January 26 and February 16. On the 26th, the attractions include the New Jersey State Track Championships, a Penn-Princeton swimming meet, a Princeton-Northeastern hockey game, varsity gymnastics and a basketball game against Duke.

Any youth group with a minimum of ten youngsters from 6-18, accompanied by at least one adult supervisor, can see all of the events for just $1 per person. The same offer holds for the February 16th Youth Day when Harvard and Yale visit Princeton for one of the east's outstanding indoor track meets.

The two Family Days will fall on February 2, when Princeton hosts Dartmouth in hockey at 2 and on February 23, when Rider meets Lehigh and Princeton hosts Brown in the first collegiate basketball doubleheader at Jadwin Gym. Under the Family Day plan, seven members of one family, to include at least one parent, can attend either event for just $1 per person.

"Our Family and Youth Group Days were so successful last fall that we felt continuation of this type of program was in order for the winter sports season," Flippin said. "It is our way of saying thanks to the many people who support our athletic teams."

FIVE ARE FINED

For Speeding. Five Princeton area residents were fined for speeding Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough Court.

Corey A. Reef, 17, 9 Hamilton Avenue, paid $24; Antonio Guglielmi, 20, 33 Humbert Street, $35; Martha L. McDougald, 37, Rocky Hill Road, Hopewell, $31; James B. Newman, 23, Hopewell, $31; and Derek B. Smith, 24, 485 Princeton-Kingston Road, $25.

Keith F. Spooner, 17, RD4 Princeton, paid two fines: $20 for careless driving and $20 for driving while the right side and rear windows of his car were obstructed with ice. Also paying fines of $20 were: Thomas C. Myers, 24 Hibben Road, flashing traffic signal; Jean T. Carver, 56, 12 Tall Timbers Drive, careless driving; Stephen E. Wilcox, 18, 26 Berkshire Drive, Princeton Junction, unsafe car; Ricardo Skipworth, 20, 19 Lytel Street, one-way street; Norman A. Schuele, 24, 766 Princeton-Kingston Road, red light; Kris Nielsen, 28, 26 Princeton Arms Cranbury improper taking on or letting off of passengers; and Sarah A. Vartarian, 28, The Great Road, failure to yield right of way.

John F. Sly, 17, 464 Ewing Street, was fined $30 and ordered re-examined by the state motor vehicle department for reckless driving. He also paid a $20 fine for a noisy muffler. A U-turn infraction cost James B. Smith, 50, 485 Princeton-Kingston Road, $25.

Township Court. In Township Court last week, Judge Carchman fined Barry B. Blount, 23, 34 Rollingmead, $35 for reckless driving.

Paying $20 fines were John S. Wallmark, 23, 109 Little Brook Road, and Joseph Christen, 79, 58 Longview Drive, both stop sign infractions; Jeffrey A. Smith, 17, 38 Pardee Circle, careless driving, and Stefan C. Slaby, 19, 469 Ewing Street, failure to stay in designated driveways under a section of the Township Ordinance.

Mr. Slaby had originally been charged with careless driving on property at the Princeton Shopping Center. He pleaded not guilty.

In criminal court, Robert Higgins of 265 Herrontown Road, and John P. D'Antonio, RD3 Lawrece Township, were each fined $50 for assault. The complainant against both was Charles R. Sista.

DEMOCRATS PICK MAYOR

In West Windsor. William Stuart, newly-elected West Windsor Township Committeeman, was chosen mayor by his fellow Democrats in re-organization ceremonies last week. He is the township's first Democratic mayor.

Alan Stutz and Peter Flatow, his fellow Democrats on Committee, voted for him. Republicans Richard Walter and Stefan Guzy were opposed.

At the re-organization meeting, Republican committee members protested the naming of Harry Heher Jr., who is Lawrence Township's attorney, as West Windsor counsel replacing Foster M. Voorhees III. Republicans questioned whether Mr. Heher might not be confronted with conflict of interest if there is controversy over Lawrence Township's Macy Mall.

Mayor Stuart has assigned Mr. Stutz the position of liaison to the planning board, replacing Mr. Walter. He has refused to relinquish the position, claiming that he is entitled to hold it so long as he is on committee. Mr. Heher ruled that committee has had a policy of making its appointments on an annual basis.

SEWER CHALLENGE

Watker to Cawley. We're prepared to call you and raise you one," said Ian R. Walker of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association this week to Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

Mr. Walker's challenge to Mayor Cawley is to "join the Association to seek reasonable compromise (on a regional sewer plan) amidst the current confusion and red tape."

Mayor Cawley, Township representatives and officials from West Windsor and South Brunswick are scheduled to meet January 22 with Federal and state officials on a possible River Road sewage treatment plant in Princeton, which would serve these four municipalities. In his letter, Mr. Walker asked to be invited to such meetings.

Mayor Cawley, in his New Year's Day address, had asked groups to be "open to seek reasonable compromise short of their own idea of perfection to accommodate the interests of others and the practical realities of an imperfect world."

The Watersheds Association, Mr. Walker writes, "has spelled out an approach to the sewer dilemma which...recognizes realities of Federat funding, water quality, water supply, land use and the interests of your neighboring mayors."

Mr. Walker then challenges the mayor to come up with a counter-proposal which recognizes the same realities. As mayor of one of the six towns in the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority, and also as a member of the Musto Commission (municipal government study), Mayor Cawley is in a good position to recommend a plan, Mr. Walker declares.

He promises that the Association is ready to discuss a strategy to solve the sewer problem, provided Mayor Cawley's proposal is developed with the Musto Commission.

HOW TO SHARE REVENUE

Lower Taxes. About $131,000 of the $1.2 billion involved in Federal revenue sharing has been parcelled out to Princeton Borough and Township. A recent study of the new revenue-sharing policy said that 38,000 units of local government in the United States shared in the funds.

In Princeton, the money was used in both Borough and Township to lower taxes. In some communities, the money has been used for specifics like tennis courts.

The Township has received about $51,300 and has applied it to general taxes. Because the Federal government insists on knowing something specific, the Township has assigned $20,979 to the police department (including salaries); $2,441 to the health department, $17,650 to recreation, $10,257 to the library.

The figures add up to less than the $51,300 because although the program began in 1972, the Township didn't receive any money until 1973. Officials decided to use the money on a five-quorters system; in 1973 spending all four "quarters" of 1972 and one of 1973; and in 1974, the remaining three quarters of 1973 and two quarters of 1974, and so on. It is a five-year program.

The Borough received $79,800 in 1973, assigned to library and recreation. Borough officials expect $78,292 in 1974.

FEES ON AGENDA

For Recreation Board. A possible nominal increase in pool and tennis fees will be discussed by the Joint Recreation Board at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at 8:15 in Township Hall.

Recreation Director R. Donald Barr said that a slight increase was being considered as sort of an "offset for some of the things we are trying to do" and to enable the board to try to get the people it wanted. He added that any increase—the board may decide not to do anything—would "not be substantial."

Pool fees, Mr. Barr said, had never been increased since the pool was opened about a half dozen years ago.

In board election of officers held last month, Mrs. Miles Dumont of the Township was elected chairman of the board, succeeding William Arminger of the Borough. Miss Merrily Dean was named vice-chairman. She is from the Borough.

Obituaries

Atherton W. Hobler, 83, a founder and chairman of Benton & Bowles, one of the nation's largest advertising agencies, died January 3 in the Princeton Medical Center. Raising Guernsey cattle had been his chief avocation since before World War II and he maintained a sizeable, prize-winning herd on the farm where he lived on The Great Road.

Born in Austin, Ill., Mr. Hobler graduated in 1911 from the University of Illinois and began work in the Gardner Advertising Co. in St. Louis. His first association in New York was with Erwin Wasey & Co., of which he was a founder. In the depths of the Depression in the '30s, the agency was billing more than $25 million, largely in the field of radio.

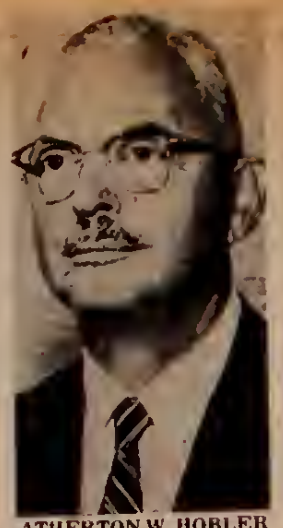
It was in 1932 that Mr. Hobler joined William Benton and Chester Bowles, bringing some $6 million in billing with him—a figure that increased their gross at that time by 600 percent. The agency was incorporated, Mr. Hobler was named president and continued his association in later years as chairman of the board. He maintained an office there until 1972.

Radio and television were the media with which Mr. Hobler was primarily involved. He helped create and produce the 60-minute "Show Boat" program for Maxwell House Coffee and was also associated with The Fred Allen Show, the Palmolivc Beauty Box Theatre and a number of day-time serials. In television, he was responsible for The First 100 Years, the industry's initial daytime serial.

Mr. Hobler was chairman of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, chairman of the American Guernsey Cattle Club and a member of the University Club of New York.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Windsor; three sons, Edward W., of Kenilworth, Ill.; Wells A., of St. Louis and Herbert W. of Princeton, president of the Nassau Broadcasting Co., of which his father was a founding director; 20 grandchildren and four greatgrandchildren. A daughter, Virginia, predeceased him.

A memorial service was held at Trinity Episcopal Church.



ATHERTON W. HOBLER

Robert E. Kinney, 53, of 7 Birch Street, Pennington, died January 5 in Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia. He was the founder of Kinney and Associates, a ski lift planning and design company based in Pennington.

Born in Millport, N.Y., Mr. Kinney graduated in 1942 from Purdue University. He had been associated with Fleetwings, Inc. as an aerodynamics and flight test engineer, with John A. Roebling and Sons and served as chief engineer with the Mercer Paper Tube and Gas Construction Co.

Mr. Kinney began designing ski lifts more than a decade ago, and had planned those in use at Belle Mountain near West Trenton, as well as the Jack Frost, Camel Back and Big Boulder lifts in Pennsylvania. He was president of the society of Aerial Tramway Engineers, a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers and chairman of the Task Force for the National Standards Aerial Tramway Safety Committee, among numerous professional affiliations.

A former member and vice-president of the Hopewell Valley Board of Education, he belonged to the Trenton Engineers Club, the Purdue Alumni Association and the Hopewell Valley Golf Club.

He is survived by his wife, Myrtle Pitman Kinney; two sons, Bruce E. of Kent, Wash., and Alan D., a student at Methodist College; his mother, Mrs. Margery S. Kinney, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson, both of Millport.

The funeral was held at the Ewing Cemetery Chapel, the Rev. John Wood of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington officiating. Contributions in his memory may be made to the Purdue Alumni Association Scholarship Fund, West Lafayette, Ind.

H. Richard Parsells, 48, of 36 Princeton Avenue, died January 2 in Princeton Medical Center. He had been a realtor in the Princeton area for the past 10 years.

Born in Ventnor, he moved to Princeton at the age of 13, and attended Princeton schools and the Hun School. He was a Marine sergeant during World War II and received a unit citation in the Battle of Tarawa.

He once owned his own realty firm. Most recently he was associated with the Thompson Land Company. He was a member of the Springdale Golf Club and the Mantoloking Yacht Club.

News Of The CHURCHES

PASTOR HONORED

Given Trip to Israel. The Rev. and Mrs. Robert A. Beringer of the First Presbyterian Church of Hopewell will leave in early March for a 15-day trip to the Holy Land and Europe—all expenses paid by their congregation which honored them for 10 years of service to the church and the community.

The presentation was made December 30 at a surprise celebration at the church. The Beringers' tour will enable them to attend the three-day World Conference on the Holy Spirit in Jerusalem, which will be attended by about 3,000 persons. They will also view significant Christian landmarks in Bethlehem, Bethany, Jericho, Caesarea, Athens and Rome.

The program of appreciation lasted several hours and centered on the portrayal of various stages in the life of the minister and his wife. Twenty persons were on-stage participators in the program, which included original art, music and poetry created for the occasion.

More than 300 persons gathered to show their appreciation to the Beringers.

Eight large banners of original design, created by members of the congregation to illustrate the spiritual stages suggested by the program, were presented as a special gift to the church.

Committee of 200. The Beringers also received matching sets of luggage, a 35 mm. camera and projector, allowances for new travel wardrobes and expenses, and special commemorative books, tapes, and pictures of the evening's celebration.

More than 200 persons were involved in the planning of the affair. Richard Morey and Roger Sandt served as chairmen. John Piggott was master of ceremonies.

INMATES TO SPEAK

At Unitarian Church. The speakers at the 10 a.m. service this Sunday at the Unitarian Church of Princeton will be Horace "Hap" Laws and Dan Obstein, inmates of the Trenton State Prison.

They are members of the prison's Inmate Forum Project, the purpose of which is to build bridges with the surrounding community. The service will be led by Ted Peck, a member of the church and a lay leader in the Mercer County prison reform movement that is attempting to increase community awareness of prison conditions.

Following the service there will be a cooperative buffet for Mr. Laws and Mr. Obstein. For information call the church office, 924-1604.

WAR FILM PLANNED

At Trinity Church. The Christian Action Board of Trinity Church will sponsor a meeting on Sunday at 3 p.m. in Pierce Hall to view the film "Once Upon a War." The film depicts the operations of the Quaker-run rehabilitation center at Quang Ngai, South Vietnam, for war-injured civilians.

The presentation will be accompanied by an informal talk by Michael Seltzer of the American Friends Service Committee's North-South Vietnam Fund. He will speak about the continuing needs of the center and other rehabilitative work which his group is carrying out throughout all of Vietnam.

The meeting is for the purpose of informing the community about some of the conditions existing in Vietnam today. All are invited to attend.

BENEFIT DINNER SET

For Orphanage. The congregation of the Morning Star Church of God in Christ is planning a somewhat different kind of program to honor its pastor, Elder Curley Guidry.

A dinner will be held Saturday, January 19, at 8 in the church at 43½ Birch Avenue, to celebrate Mr. Guidry's birthday and also to raise funds to help support an orphanage in Haiti. The donation for the roast beef dinner is $7.50.

Tickets may be purchased from Miss Louise Gamble, 394-3956; Mrs. M. Gallop, 924-4616; Mrs. Hunter Burrell, 921-8393; or at the church office, 924-5478.

Service to Honor Dr. King

The Princeton University Chapel will present a special service commemorating the life and work of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Sunday morning at 11. This is the fifth year in which such a service has been held in Dr. King's honor at the Chapel.

The preacher will be Dr. Samuel D. Proctor, Professor of Education at the Rutgers University Graduate School of Education and the Senior Minister of New York's Abyssinian Baptist Church. Dr. Proctor, who holds the Martin Luther King Memorial Chair at Rutgers, served as President of Virginia Union University from 1955 to 1960, and headed North Carolina A & T State University from 1960 to 1964.

The Morning Star Church will also be the scene of a revival series featuring Elder Albert Hartdige of Los Angeles, Calif. Known as "The Miracle Man," Mr. Hartdige will preach, sing and play the organ nightly at 8 p.m. from Sunday through Friday of next week.

Mr. Hartdige was blinded and severely injured in Vietnam. According to Mr. Guidry of the Morning Star Church, "doctors said he would never see or walk again but God healed him."

"Bring the sick and those that are disturbed," says Elder Guidry. "We will be praying nightly."

SEMINAR PLANNED

On Prison Reform. Two prisoners from the Yardville Correction Center and three area prison administrators will participate in a seminar on prison reform at the Presbyterian Church of Lawrenceville on Sunday at 4:30.

James Lafferty and Jerome Walker, currently inmates of the Yardville Correction Center, will join Thomas Lynch, Assistant Superintendent of Yardville Correction Center; Thomas Durand, Coordinator of Volunteer Services at Yardville; and Richard Van Den Heuvel, Administrator of the Work Release Program for Mercer County, in a discussion of proposed reforms.

Area residents are invited to attend the seminar which is sponsored by the church's Adult Education Committee and which will be held in the chapel of the church.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm

How much vitamin A do you need? The Committee on Foods and Nutrition of the National Research council has estimated that you need about 5,000 international units. Translated into food, this would be two tablespoons of butter, 1 pint whole milk, 1 egg, ¼ cup of any cooked green leafy vegetable, Carrots, liver, hubbard squash, sweet potato, halibut, apricots, peaches, tomato juice, peas, margarine, eggs, whole milk cheese: These are all necessary adjuncts to a diet that is rich in vitamin A.

A fine selection of dental products will be found at THE FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon. Let our expert pharmacists advise you on the proper products best suited for your individual needs. See our complete selection of HUDSON vitamins at catalog prices. Phone 921-7287.

HELPFUL HINT:

Inner Bus System to Serve Princeton Is Seen Likely This Year

Gas tank low? Tired of battling traffic? Hungry for a parking space?

Well, why not hop a bus? Not today, of course, but maybe this year.

It was 18 months ago—in June, 1972—that Borough and Township mayors said they wanted more details from the Joint Transportation Committee before they opened the municipal check-book for bus routes.

They are still saying the same thing. But at least, they are reaching for that check-book.

"If the transportation committee can come up with a package we like, that seems workable, we'll make an emergency appropriation," says Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund. Somewhat more cautious, Township Mayor Jay Bleiman says, "We're not yet persuaded there is enough detail. What size bus? The right kind of bus? Whata about a Dial-A-Ride system? But we're meeting soon with the transportation committee to talk." So far, neither municipal budget inciudes bus money.

"Speed it up!" was the word from both Borough and Township to the citizens' transportation committee at a meeting held December 13, reports the committee's chairman, William Starr. The same "DO something!" order was repeated at a meeting last Thursday. Some transportation committee members are even talking optimistically about a ready-to-go report by March 1.

Already, the committee has looped out a bus route (see sketch). Two buses, one going each way, would operate from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Everybody hopes commuters would hop the early bus and get off at the dinky station on University Place. If commuters aren't interested, the 7 a.m. hour might be pushed up to a later time.

Fare would probably be 30c. Elderly passengers would pay half fare, and the state says it will re-imburse the other half.

People who work in Princeton will be urged to park in the 400-car lot around Jadwin Gym, in the Princeton Shopping Center or Community Park and take the bus to work. It's possible that one bus, early in the morning would make a straight trip from Jadwin to the Central Business District, Harrison Street and the hospital to serve Princeton's employees.

The University has reconfirmed its willingness to offer the Jadwin lot free of charge, Mr. Starr reports. The lot wouldn't be available Saturdays, however. The elaborate ring of peripheral lots once discussed, seems to have been simplified by the route itself, to Jadwin, Shopping Center and Community Park.

"We must convince workers this bus plan will benefit them!" exclaims Mrs. Sigmund, "If people take the bus, parking spaces uptown will be freed for shoppers in Princeton stores and traffic will flow more easily. The more customers, the bigger your salary, so it's important to support a successful bus route."

Mrs. Sigmund hopes for a meeting with merchants and town officials to convince them of what she calls "a crisis situation" which the bus route can help solve. "Such a meeting is vital," she believes. A recent Borough appointee to the Joint Transportation Committee is young Irvin Urken whose family has been on the Princeton retail scene for many years, and is reportedly eager to work for solutions to traffic and parking problems.

A chill note, however: a Chamber of Commerce survey made about three years ago. The Chamber found that only 17 per cent of the people who work here and live elsewhere, would use a parking lot and take a bus to work. But gas-tanks were full, then

Another chill note: President Nixon's recent pocket-veto of a bill which would have assigned Federal money to buy local buses. Princeton's plan has been based on an arrangement to use Mercer Metro buses, but Mercer is temporarily
